WASHINGTON REPORT

Washington, April 29, 1968

WR 68-17

COMMUNIST PSY-WAR AND THE RIOTS IN THE CITIES

Did Communists or their camp followers, those variegated groups of leftist extremists, play any role in supplying some form of agitation or leadership in the April riots? It is too early to give an answer to this question, but it is difficult to believe that the widespread appearance of gasoline bombs and agitational exhortation to the mobs were in all cases spontaneous. It is worth noting that Baltimore Mayor D'Alesandro and Maryland Governor Agnew both stated that the Baltimore rioting gave the appearance of having been planned.

Perhaps of even greater significance, however, is the way in which the worldwide orchestration of Communist propaganda sought to exploit the violence in the streets. Interesting, too, is an analysis of Communist psycho-political indicators as they portend Communist efforts to aggravate racial tensions in America for the coming summer and beyond. For the Communists have turned an old nursery rhyme upside down. It ran: "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but words will never hurt me." The Communists and, indeed, the entire spectrum of leftist extremists, understand—as did the Nazis of the 1930's—that words can be employed to create tension, to build hatred, and to stir up tumults, all of which will lead to the use of the sticks and stones of mob violence and massive civil disorder. It may be of value in planning to meet future propaganda attacks, therefore, if we examine the Communist psycho-political warfare effort built around the April riots.

The Soviet Union and Satellites

Soviet organization for propaganda and the efficiency of Soviet-U. S. Communist Party transmission belts were alike demonstrated in the aftermath of the murder of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King. Early on April 5 (Dr. King was killed the night of April 4) the official Soviet news agency TASS issued a statement from Secretary General Gus Hall and National Chairman Henry Winston of the U. S. Communist Party. They sought to tie the murder to the Vietnam war and stated that "the assassin's gun which killed Martin Luther King is undoubtedly associated with the guns wielded against the people of Vietnam." This theme was repeated on April 6 in the official Soviet newspaper IZVESTIA which stated: "The fatal gun

Editor's Note: The closing sentence of the Washington Report of April 15, 1968 (WR: 68-15) indicated that domestic guerrilla warfare "will be supported by others in the world who seek the destruction of our system. . ." Dr. James D. Atkinson, Professor of Government at Georgetown University, has, in this Washington Report, covered the worldwide Communist propaganda attacks following urban rioting in the U. S. in April.

of the murder of Dr. King was aimed by the same America which is bringing death in Vietnam with tens of thousands of bullets."

Another TASS statement on April 5 indicates a different facet of Soviet propaganda efforts to foment racial discord. TASS said that "the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) stressed that the assassination of King is a new example of genocide against the black population of the United States. The Soviet tactic of shouting genocide is especially ironic in view of the Soviet record on genocide with reference to the Poles in the Katyn Forest, the Baltic peoples in Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, and the Kalmuks, Buryat Mongols, and other peoples in the USSR.

On April 8 TASS returned to the attempt to mix the war in Vietnam and the tragic events in Memphis and added a smear attack on President Johnson. TASS reported that James Jackson (at that time in the USSR), secretary of the national committee of the U. S. Communist Party, spoke over Moscow television and tried to link the murder of Dr. King with Vietnam. TASS quoted Jackson as saying, "that this crime cannot be viewed apart from the horror into which the Johnson government has plunged the Vietnamese people."

On the following day (April 9, 1968) TASS broadened the propaganda theme to embrace the so-called "national liberation movement", that is, the unconventional warfare of psycho-political attack, subversion, insurrection, and guerrilla warfare which is being waged both externally and internally against so many non-Communist countries. TASS stated that a Martin Luther King memorial meeting was held in Moscow attended by, among others, "representatives of many Soviet public organizations." The meeting adopted a statement that "the policy of military suppression of the struggle of the Vietnamese, Korean, and other peoples for national independence and freedom unleashes the most sinister, most reactionary forces and movements inside the United States; and this policy inspires them to even viler actions against the forces of democracy and progress."

The propaganda line in the East European satellites, as usual, followed the Soviet pattern, but the East German Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland introduced an interesting variation in the theme. In an April 6 article it made the usual effort to tie the Memphis events to Vietnam, but closed with an appeal aimed at getting people to participate in agitation through front organizations. Thus it stated that "the bullet which slew Dr. Martin Luther King will induce hundreds of thousands to join the international fighting front against the barbaric U. S. imperialism and its accomplices." Only a week later about one thousand left wing students fought police in West Berlin after the wounding of the left-extremist leader Rudi Dutschke. In other places in West Germany students demonstrated and sang the International, the song of the world Communist movement. Communist youth and student fronts, and the left extremist groups which seem to pursue the same goals may be expected to grow increasingly militant and to attempt to produce widespread civil disorder. And as Neues Deutschland has indicated, the Communists hope to be able to exploit not only the fronts, but also various dissident elements for one underlying mission: to conduct internal warfare deep within the structure of Free World society.

North Vietnam

Since the Soviet Union supplies 80% or more of the total Communist war effort in Vietnam, it comes as no surprise that the North Vietnamese propaganda line is like the Soviet. Thus the official North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan on April 7 quoted North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong as saying to Stokely Carmichael, during the latter's visit to Hanoi in August, 1967, "The Vietnamese people deeply sympathize with the sufferings of black people in the United States and regard the black people in the United States as their brothers and close comrades in arms in the struggle against the common enemy, U. S. imperialism."

Nhan Dan returned to the attack on April 9 and 11 with the concept that racial discord in the United States could be turned into a "second front" in the attack on "U. S. imperialism". The issue of April 11 explained clearly the Communist concept of two fronts: "The first front nowadays is the resistance to U. S. imperialism in the world, with Vietnam in the center and at the frontline. The second front against U. S. imperialism is right in the United States, with the combination of the black people's struggle, the American people's protest movement against the aggressive war in Vietnam, and the working class struggle against oppression and exploitation."

Communist Cuba

Communist Cuban propaganda might just as well have been written in Hanoi since it was much of a pattern. Radio Havana stated, for example, on April 12 that "the Central Organization of Cuban Workers (CTC), through the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), has sent a message to the U. S. Negro workers declaring that the vile murder of leader Martin Luther King has once more revealed the racist, brutal character of the North American society against the black population of that country."

And on April 15, Radio Havana in announcing the annual May Day slogans, stated that "the revolutionary offensive and May Day this year are linked by a single slogan, 'More Revolution.'" Radio Havana then went on to say that "the Cuban workers extend their embrace of solidarity to the workers of the world, particularly to the Vietnamese people and to the Negro population of the United States, who are in the forefront of combat against Yankee imperialism."

Communist China

Communist China and the Soviet Union may, from time to time, deliver vitriolic propaganda attacks on one another, but it is well to recall that history reveals that having a common enemy has done more to solidify alliances than any ties of friendship. The events after the murder of Dr. King revealed that—whatever their differences—the Chinese Communists and the Soviet Communists see the United States as the common enemy. Thus the official Chinese Communist Party newspaper, People's Daily, on April 11 stated that, "the world people's anti-U. S. struggle and the Afro-American peoples' armed resistance against racial oppression are supporting each other" and that "the anti-U. S. struggles of the world peoples, which are in an upsurge, help and encourage each other. Together they converge into a mighty revolutionary, anti-imperialist torrent." And on April 13, People's Daily once again sought to incite hatred in the United States by charging that "Lenin's words penetratingly pointed out that only by completely overthrowing the man-eating U. S. capitalist system could the American black man obtain real emancipation."

What Of The Future?

Thus—throughout the world—resounded the raucous and inflammatory voices of Communist propaganda.

Has any voice arisen to challenge these strident Communist cries? Happily, there has. Significantly, it is the voice of an American Negro. It is the highly gifted musical voice of melody-blues singer James Brown.

This talented singer's career has truly been the Horatio Alger story of rags to riches, for specifically, Mr. Brown rose from shining shoes in his native Georgia to become a millionaire.

On April 6 James Brown (flying his personal aircraft) came from Boston, where he had earlier helped cool incipient disorders, to Washington, D.C. to speak out against the riots, to plead for peace, and to remind those who would listen that "America's the greatest country in the world."

Speaking on a special television program and addressing himself especially to Negro young people he said: "You know, I'm not—a man that will do anything anybody says, or take sides, what the black man describes as a Tom. I'm not a Tom, I'm a man. Nobody can buy me. I do what I want; I say what I want—because this is America—a man can get ahead here. I tell you I've got ahead, I'm able to speak what I want to say, and say it the way I want to say it."

Communist propagandists—wherever you are—please copy, for this is still the real meaning of our freedom.

Honorable J. Edgar Hoover

Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Ever since the Bureau initiated the cooperation program with The American Legion around 1939 or 1940, I have been extended an annual invitation to speak before the Delaware Legion Convention on subjects relating to the FBI. I have always used your testimony before the House Appropriations Subcommittee as a guide.

Last Saturday I appeared at Laurel, Delaware and had with me articles which appeared in the Washington Daily News and the Washington Post in answer to Senator Mc Carthy's unwarranted charges.

I deviated from my usual talk sufficiently to let Mc Carthy have it with both barrels. I cited the fact that I entered Bureau service in 1929 when there were approximately 350 agents and left in 1953 when the total exceeded 6,500 and that it was your foresight and planning which built the Bureau into the organization it is today.

Your answers to Mc Carthy's ridiculous statements were all received by the Convention and were officially entered into Convention proceedings.

Washington - The Soviet Union has "jumped into the lead in overall strategic missile strength" by making optimum use "of a much smaller economic base than the United States" and is "operating on a war economy basis." Therefore, "an American ABM system is the soundest insurance for peace and against war that the United States can buy in 1969, for the 1970's.

"Far from being an offensive weapon, the ABM is in reality insurance against war. It may well be, in fact, the single most important step the United States can take toward a real and lasting peace at this moment in history."

This was reported today in a 64-page study entitled "The ABM and the Changed Strategic Military Balance: U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A." prepared for the American Security Council by a special subcommittee of the Council's National Strategy Committee.

The subcommittee was headed by co-chairmen Dr. Willard F. Libby (Nobel Prize for Chemistry, 1960), Director of the Institute of Geophysics and Planetary Physics, UCLA; Dr. William J. Thaler, Physics Department, Georgetown University, developer of the "over-the-horizon" radar; and former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Nathan F. Twining, USAF (Ret.).

The subcommittee declared "it is no longer necessary to suppose...that the Soviets will aim for strategic military superiority. Reality now conforms to theory. We now know that the Soviet's military objective is strategic superiority because they have passed 'parity' and are still building."

The study showed that the "combined total of ICBMs, IR/MRBMs (Intermediate and Medium Range Missiles) and SLMs (Sea-Launched Missiles) is now estimated as 2,750 for the U.S.S.R. to 1,710 for the U.S.A."

The 31-man subcommittee panel included specialists of many fields of expertise. Among these were Dr. Harold M. Agnew, Director of the Weapons Division of the Atomic Energy Commission's Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory; Dr. Eugene P. Wigner (Nobel Prize for Physics, 1963) of Princeton University; Dr. Edward Teller, nuclear physicist, Lawrence Radiation Laboratories, University of California at Livermore; retired career Ambassador Elbridge Durbrow; Peter Bruce Clark, publisher of the Detroit News; Robert W. Galvin, Chairman of the Board of Motorola, Inc.; General Bernard A. Schriever, USAF (Ret.), who headed the development of America's ICBMs; and Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, former Chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Clear evidence of the "war economy" which the Soviet Union maintains, the subcommittee pointed out, is provided by the fact that:

"...The overall military budget of the U.S.S.R. is already essentially equal to or greater than the U.S. budget, especially when costs peculiar to Vietnam are excluded from the U.S. figures...

"Although the gross national product of the United States runs almost twice that of the gross in the U.S.S.R., the U.S. S.R. is investing 2 to 3 times more in strategic military forces annually...

"The U.S.S.R. may invest at least $50 to $100 billion more in strategic forces between now and 1975, than the United States, unless the relative trends change substantially."

As a consequence of this greater effort, "not only has the military power of the Soviet Union grown more rapidly than that of the U.S.A., but it has rapidly overtaken the forces of the United States in new concepts and new weapons systems.

"The U.S.S.R. now has whole families of military (and naval) weapons systems that the United States does not have in its inventory."

The U.S.S.R. has adopted what the subcommittee described as "innovative policies" to take advantage of both offensive and defensive opportunities.

For example - the Soviets:

--- "presently enjoy a clear lead in space orbital weapons... Properly deployed, a significant number, let us say 100, could be in a position to attack the United States in a matter of seconds after the button was pushed in the Kremlin..."

--- have an estimated 1,000 Intermediate and Medium Range missiles which are "primarily aimed at Europe and now completely pin Europe down..."

CONTAINS INFORMATION OF
CLASSIFICATION OF JAN 1974

--- have "very large -- 50-100 megaton nuclear weapons which were tested in 1961-62...adapted for missile delivery."

--- have "the Bear Bomber. It is the world's longest range, highest endurance bomber...an effective anti-shipping and anti-submarine attack aircraft with air-to-surface attack missiles on board."

Furthermore, the Soviet Union has been developing a sophisticated ABM defense system for ten years and now has anti-ballistic missiles deployed around Moscow and in a "Blue Belt" defense line described by Marshal Malinovsky as being "for the defense of the entire territory of the Soviet Union."

In connection with their missile defense program, "the Soviets are developing a comprehensive civil defense program...spending about 10 times as much effort as is the United States in providing the Soviet society an adequate civil defense. Moreover, civil defense in the Soviet Union is related directly to overall Soviet military strategy."

These findings become most significant when considered against the background of announced Soviet objectives and the continuing assertions of Soviet leaders that they are preparing for any eventuality that might trigger a nuclear war in their determination to achieve long-stated Communist goals, worldwide.

The Council study concludes that "in both word and deed, the Soviets have shown that they regard the world struggle as a fight to the finish between two diametrically opposed social systems. Moreover, it is a fight the Soviets intend to win."

In the face of this Soviet drive for strategic superiority, coupled with announced Communist aims and the "war economy" atmosphere prevailing in the Soviet Union, the special subcommittee agreed that the United States must "create a missile defense system to protect our nuclear deterrent."

"An ABM system, said the subcommittee, "is not a cure-all for the security of the United States...but (it) is an essential component in the network of military systems designed to give the American people a seamless garment of security in an age of acute danger."

In its Foreword, the panel said:

"We have emphasized the trend in strategic military capabilities of the U.S.S.R. versus the U.S.A. This criterion is more important than one based upon intentions because one can easily be deceived by intentions but not as readily by capabilities."

"If one finds an increasing capability for warfare on the part of a self-declared enemy, it is only common sense and prudence to prepare an adequate defense."

Said the subcommittee:

"On March 14, 1969, President Nixon announced that his Administration planned to modify the Sentinel missile defense system approved by Congress under the Johnson Administration by using it first to defend some U.S. retaliatory missiles rather than to defend cities. This modification was named the 'Safeguard' system..."

"Safeguard is a modest, limited proposal. It is subject to constant review, as conditions change."

"Nevertheless, the Safeguard ABM has become the focus of a major national debate. It has become a symbolic issue with many. Some of those who oppose the emphasis given to national defense expenditures have clearly chosen Safeguard as the issue on which to join in opposition."

"The Safeguard debate has thus assumed such importance that all major defense decisions in the future will very likely be prejudiced if Safeguard is rejected."

The Council's National Strategy subcommittee summed up its findings this way:

"ABM is a method of deterrence which will save lives and not destroy them."

"It is more consistent with the moral objectives of the United States for this country to provide more effective ways of protecting people than to base our deterrent power wholly upon our ability to kill people in other countries or 'accept' heavy casualties at home."

"On balance, Safeguard makes sense:

- .. it makes sense to defend our retaliatory missile sites;
- .. it makes sense to defend our air bases;
- .. it makes sense to defend our national command centers in the nation's capital;
- .. it makes sense because the cost is relatively low and the program is subject to yearly review;
- .. it makes sense to defend against the Chinese threat of the mid-70s;
- .. it makes sense because we are not foreclosing the future.

"We are leaving our options open."

WASHINGTON REPORT

Washington, June 2, 1969

WR 69-22

REVOLUTION IN AMERICA:

Faced with a virtual war from within, waged by revolutionary leftist students, black power extremists and anti "establishment" protesters, American society is involved in a conflict it cannot afford to lose. The nation's heritage of liberty under law, of academic freedom and order, is at stake in the struggle now taking place on many campuses and in the streets of America. The challenge posed to the United States by neo-anarchists employing the tactics of Naziism is as grave and menacing as Hitler's youthful brownshirts offered to the German Weimar Republic in the early 1930's.

Fortunately, the wave of campus and street disorders that has struck the United States in the last few years is producing an awareness of the danger to freedom and the necessity of remedial action by the lawful authorities and institutions of America, ranging from college administrations to municipalities to the federal government. Nevertheless, much remains to be done to fully educate the American people to the dimensions and character of the anarchist war from within. Informing community leaders and opinion-shapers in the United States appears to be the most important educational task facing the nation in 1969.

New Seminar Series

Accordingly, the American Security Council, in cooperation with the Institute of American Strategy, has arranged for the Freedom Studies Center at Boston, Virginia, to hold symposia—starting this month—on the subject of "Revolution in America: The New Left and National Disorders."

Educators, college trustees, school board officials, law enforcement authorities, state legislators, municipal officers, clergymen, labor leaders, and businessmen are being offered an opportunity to obtain detailed briefings by experts on the New Left's challenge to American society.

The seriousness of the problem on the campuses cannot be underestimated. The American Security Council's cooperating colleges and universities, numbering 358, have an opportunity through the Freedom Studies Center symposia to develop a broad-scale public and official understanding of the threat to academic freedom and order—a chance to work out a common approach to the nihilist menace facing America's educational institutions.

The Nature of the Threat

Many scholars and administrators have commented on the threat to academic freedom posed by the campus disruptionists. One of the most powerful statements came from Dr. Dwight L. Dumond, distinguished professor emeritus of history at the University of Michigan. Dr. Dumond pointed out—

ANALYSIS OF DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING THE NATION'S SECURITY

ENCLOSURE

"The militants are not progressives, not liberals. They are reactionaries of the most extreme sort. They seek to destroy, not to build, and they are achieving little except chaos and retardation.... They cannot speak without obscenities. They cut great holes in desks, write erotic notes on desks decent people have to sit after them, and burn holes in carpets and cork floors. They have revolted against everything that is decent and respectable."

The judgment of students who believe in the true values of a university parallels that of Dr. Dumond. One such student, J. C. Helms, a fourth year graduate student and teaching fellow at Harvard University, said of the Harvard strikers:

"Isn't this the generation that wants to tell it like it is? Why, then, is everyone mincing words? The students who occupied University Hall (at Harvard) are violent people, they do not belong here. Their wrongdoing is not just youthful restlessness, it is not just misdirected idealism: It is a crime, and those who committed this crime should be expelled immediately and never allowed to return."

Behind much of the violence on college campuses is the SDS—the misnamed Students for a Democratic Society. Though its membership does not exceed 35,000 (and may not be that high)—a small number of individuals in a nation of more than 200 million people, it has demonstrated a tremendous capacity for disruption. The SDS, as Sen. Robert Byrd, D.-West Va., has remarked, could be more aptly called "Students to Destroy Society." Its initial campaign is to shatter America's educational system. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, has said of the SDS leadership: "Their cries for revolution and their advocacy of guerrilla warfare evolve out of a pathological hatred for our way of life and a determination to destroy it."

Words and Deeds

In its vicious campaign, the SDS has used the language of freedom, speaking of "racial injustice" or "free speech." But Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, warns that their claim to speak "from conscience" or in the name of "morality" is utterly hypocritical.

To stand up to the bully boys of the New Left often requires a high degree of personal courage. Undergraduates who opposed the student strike at Harvard were physically beaten. Professors at San Francisco State have been threatened. There have been fire-bombings and bloody clashes on many campuses. Campus interviewers from industry have been seized and held for hours. In addition, clerical help has been harassed, computers and other expensive equipment have been destroyed, and speakers have been assaulted as they delivered lectures and public addresses.

The parallel of the New Left with the Nazis is too striking to ignore.

Demands for firm action against campus revolutionaries are growing throughout the nation, as anarchy increases and even armed conflicts break out on some campuses. Sentiment for the protection of academic freedom in a climate of law and order is being voiced in Congress with ever-greater frequency.

For example, U.S. Rep. Robert N. Guaimo, of Connecticut, recently declared:

"It has become apparent that certain students and faculty members think they are above the law. It has become apparent that certain elements on campuses throughout the country are treating academic freedom as a license to hate, disrupt and destroy."

Congress is especially disturbed about the leftwing attack on the Reserve Officer Training Corps program (ROTC).

U.S. Rep. Clement J. Zablocki of Wisconsin, in an address at Marquette University May 10, warned:

"It is important to note that extreme radical groups agitate for removal of the ROTC programs from the campuses as part of a larger plan for fomenting actual revolution in the nation. They seek to introduce class warfare and racial conflict among the youth of our country."

The problem of disorder is no longer confined to colleges and universities, however. Indeed one of the most disturbing developments is the attempted spread of revolution to public schools. In North Carolina, for example, Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, reported last month that "high schools are an area that some of the radical groups are planning to move into."

Meeting the Threat

How to deal with the New Left and the national disorders is a question to which there are a variety of answers.

Increased reliance on law enforcement agencies is being urged in many quarters. The Wall Street Journal recently stated:

"The correct path was demonstrated recently at Columbia by President Andrew W. Cordier. He sought court injunctions against students occupying buildings. This invokes the majesty of the law, and even more important turns actual enforcement over to the courts, with their vast store of experience in dealing with such matters."

The Congress, however, is considering a number of legislative proposals designed to restore order in the nation and to safeguard American institutions from terrorism in any form.

One of the bills introduced in the U.S.

Senate is the Academic Freedom Protective Act (S. 1988). This bill would make it a federal crime to interfere with the orderly administration or operation of a federally-assisted institution. It would make it a crime to cause disruption by committing an act of violence or by uttering a threat to do so. It further would forbid obstruction of access to or egress from any part of the premises of federally-assisted institutions.

Another—and more comprehensive measure is the Internal Security Act of 1969 (S.12), co-sponsored by 17 senators from both parties. One of the many features of this omnibus bill is a strong anti-riot section. The legislation provides heavy penalties for any person who "uses any facility of interstate or foreign commerce, including the mail, telegraph, telephone, radio or television, with intent to incite a riot; or to organize, promote, encourage or participate in a riot.

The proposed law stipulates that "a threat or threats of the commission of an act or acts of violence by one or more persons part of an assemblage of three or more persons" would constitute "clear and present danger." It also would prohibit the teaching of the "necessity" of employing violence in American society which offers so many opportunities for peaceful and lawful change.

Campus strife and urban riots are simply two facets of a deep-seated nihilist revolution. Other facets that require searching examination include undermining of morale in the armed forces by extremists in uniform and the threat to the nation's access to intellectual resources posed by efforts to end defense research in universities. Need exists for analysis of all New Left actions and phenomena and for discussion of the psychological roots of the New Left's Nazi-like glorification of violence and destruction.

The symposia to be conducted at the Freedom Studies Center will deal not simply with the tactics of the New Left (harassment of armed forces recruiters, the degrading of academic occasions by the shouting of obscenities, and the operations of fire-bombers and sniper squads in urban riots) but will consider the larger question of "why" a free and productive society such as exists in America faces this particular threat.

Understand the new totalitarians, so that effective counter-action can be undertaken by society, is the fundamental purpose of the forthcoming Freedom Studies Center symposia: "Revolution in America." Concerned citizens, interested in attending one of the symposia, should write the Freedom Studies Center, Boston, Virginia (22713) for information.

Attached letter was received by
Mr. Bronislau Nikonowicz, 138 Grant St, Depew, N.Y. He asked me to look at it and assist him. Mr. Nikonowicz has been in this country approximately 20 years.

It is my opinion that Mr. John M.
Lisher of the American Security Council is appealing to the patriotic sense of recent arrivals to this country to secure funds for a vague purpose. He uses an impressive letterhead, lists many known Americans and provides post cards to U.S. Senators. He also provides a return post card and envelope for his own purpose, the collection of money.

I therefore ask the FBI to investigate
Mr. Lisher and his activities for the protection of citizens like Mr. Nikonowicz.

Sincerely yours,
Leo J. Harda
New York Air National Guard.

And they gave good reasons, including:

1. The Soviet Union has jumped into the lead in overall strategic missile strength.
2. The Soviet Union is investing 2 to 3 times more in strategic military forces than the U. S.--$50 to $100 billion more over the next six years.
3. By 1975, it is estimated that the Soviet Union will have deployed close to 500 SS-9's, mammoth nuclear rockets with 20-25 megaton warheads. (Our own Minuteman is capable of delivering only about one megaton.)
4. The combined total of ICBM's IR/MRBM's (intermediate and medium range missiles) and SLM's (sub-launched missiles) is now estimated as 2,750 for the Soviet Union to 1,710 for the United States.
5. The Soviet Union has a missile defense system; we do not.

In summary, the Subcommittee declared: "IN BOTH WORD AND DEED, THE SOVIETS HAVE SHOWN THAT THEY REGARD THE WORLD STRUGGLE AS A FIGHT TO THE FINISH BETWEEN TWO DIAMETRICALLY OPPOSED SOCIAL SYSTEMS. MOREOVER, IT IS A FIGHT THE SOVIETS INTEND TO WIN."

Newspapers across the country have treated our study and the anti-ABM study sponsored by Senator Kennedy as the leading independent statements on the ABM.

We consider the facts in the American Security Council Study to be essential to a reasoned analysis of the issue. And while the American Security Council has been able to underwrite this special Study, it does not have the budget for the major public education program now needed.

We have therefore initiated a special education program, "Operation Safeguard", to make the information contained in this Study available to the public.

We come to you for help on "Operation Safeguard" because you have demonstrated by your past support of vital causes that you care about your country and its future and are willing to commit yourself when the cause is right.

We therefore ask you to do two things today:

1. Immediately write your two U. S. Senators. I have enclosed a set of blank post cards for you to use. In the space provided on the cards, tell them, in your own words, that you support the ABM program and the strengthening of America's defenses against the Soviet Union and Communist China. Tell them that the ABM system is vital to the security and safety of America.
2. Send your maximum contribution today to the American Security Council for "Operation Safeguard" to help cover the costs of newspaper advertisements, radio and TV programs and the distribution of the American Security Council's Study to opinion leaders.

Here are some sample costs and target media:

A full page ad in the New York Times -- $8,616.

- . A full page ad in the Washington Post -- $4,100.
- . A full page ad in the Chicago Tribune -- $6,840.
- . A full page ad in the Los Angeles Times -- $6,850.
- . A half hour over a Washington TV station -- $1,250.

Ads like those mentioned above will help us reach...and influence...millions of American families.

To get the "true facts" about ABM to every corner of the nation will take a minimum of $275,000.

It is essential that we convince the U. S. Senate that a majority of Americans "want the installation of the Safeguard ABM system for the future safety and security of our children, our families and, indeed, our nation."

Please send in your maximum contribution today while the thought is still fresh in your mind. Because there is so much at stake we ask that you be as generous as possible. Enclose your check in the addressed envelope provided for your convenience. Also, please mail the post cards to your two U. S. Senators. The vote is going to be very close and the opposition is flooding Congress with mail.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher

JMF/mp

P. S. Since the vote is going to be so close and this issue is so critical I'm enclosing some extra post cards to pass on to a friend.

P.P.S. If you give $25 or more, you will receive a complimentary copy of the full 72-page American Security Council study on the ABM.

Dear Member:

Because of your support, we have made a significant impact on the national debate about the Safeguard ABM.

All polls have shown an increase in the Senate votes for the Safeguard ABM, with the anti-ABM forces now no more than one vote ahead. It is still so close that Senator Mansfield has recently predicted a 50-50 split of the Senate, with Vice President Agnew breaking the tie.

Whichever way the impending first vote on the authorization bill in the Senate goes, the fight will continue and will be expanded.

Already, a group of 80 members of the Senate and House, calling themselves "Members of Congress for Peace Through Law," have prepared a critical analysis and data for an assault on six other major weapons programs, in addition to the ABM. According to the New York Times of July 10, the group has been "quietly encouraged and aided by other powerful Senators, including the majority leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, John Sherman Cooper, Republican of Kentucky, and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the assistant Democratic leader."

The New York Times reports that their objective is to slash military spending and to channel these funds into domestic programs. There is no indication that they recognize or are particularly concerned about the growing Soviet strategic military threat.

When Senator Henry Jackson, Democrat of Washington and an acknowledged Congressional expert on defense matters, outlined the Soviet threat during the ABM floor debate, Senator Charles Percy, Republican of Illinois, replied: "Hogwash."

With the anti-strong America forces redoubling their efforts, we will need your continued help in our efforts to strengthen America.

Here is what we have done with your help in the past three months:

- * Special ABM Study - The experts on this letter-head prepared the only independent study yet published in support of the Safeguard ABM.

This has been a major force in the debate. We were able to give it to every member of Congress and to the publishers, editors and columnists of every newspaper in the United States.

Since its publication May 7, 1969, in booklet form, we have published it both as a hard and soft cover book. I have enclosed a copy of the dust cover so that you can see how the book looks.

- * Washington Report - Seven issues of our weekly Washington Report have been devoted to various aspects of the ABM issue.

Each of these seven issues went to key editors and columnists of every daily newspaper in the United States and to every member of Congress.

- * Washington Report of the Air - We devoted 20 of our daily radio programs to different aspects of the ABM issue. This program is broadcast on more than 1,000 stations, making it the most widely aired daily radio program in the country. The daily audience is somewhere between five and ten million people.

In Washington, D.C. it is heard on WMAL at 6:35 p.m. - evening "drive-home time" for members of Congress.

Members of our special ABM committee also participated in a number of radio and TV debates and talk shows around the nation.

- * Newspaper and Magazine Advertising - With your help, we have placed the enclosed ad in over 100 newspapers, including the Washington Post, the Chicago Tribune, St. Louis Globe-Democrat, San Diego Evening Tribune, Honolulu Star and Advertiser, and the National Observer.

Scores of newspapers printed the ad as a public service.

Hundreds of the magazine-size of the ad will appear free in organization publications, such as that of the Air Force Association and of the American Legion Auxiliary. The American Legion has asked its 1,300 state and local publications to carry the ad free.

- * Bumper Stickers - We have printed and distributed tens of thousands of the enclosed bumper sticker, mostly through the help of other organizations. (They are 25 cents each, or 15 cents each in lots of 100 or more).
- * Cooperation with Other Organizations - We have met regularly with representatives of several major organizations to exchange information and, in effect, to coordinate our efforts on "Operation Safeguard." In many cases, this was the first time they had ever cooperated in such a program.
- * Results - The study and Washington Reports were the basis for thousands of news articles, columns and editorials in newspapers and magazines across the country, as well as extensive coverage on both radio and TV.

According to one Senate aide, our study is "the Bible of the ABM supporters." It probably was not that important, but many members of Congress have told us that they found it to be most useful in the debate.

The ads and direct appeals addressed to people like you also generated several tens of thousands of messages to members of Congress urging favorable action on the ABM. (We sent out over one million letters asking concerned Americans to contact members of Congress on this issue!)

I know that you share our pride in all we have been able to do together in a very short time. I also know that you understand that if we are to meet the continuing challenge, we will need your continuing support.

With deep gratitude for your past and continuing support,

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher
President

P.S. Keep up your contact with your Senators and Congressmen. Now is the time to reaffirm your position!

...But what if we DON'T build the Safeguard ABM?

A black and white illustration of a missile launching from the ground. The missile is angled upwards, leaving a large, billowing plume of smoke and fire behind it. In the upper right, another missile is shown in flight, trailing a smaller plume. The background is dark and textured, suggesting a night sky or a distant horizon. The overall tone is dramatic and urgent.

The answer is lodged in facts that may not show up as often as they should on newspaper front pages and in TV news broadcasts! It is concerned with the serious step-up in Russian missile production... with a world in which the Communists have taken the lead in nuclear weapons... and with the single non-Communist, non-military threat that may prove to be the cause of our downfall.

MAKE NO MISTAKE. At this very moment the Soviet Union already is well ahead of the U.S. in overall strategic missile strength. The most urgent matter before the Congress and the American people today is deciding what to do about it.

The American Security Council urges that all of the facts be given careful consideration . . . and believes that a carefully reasoned evaluation of those facts leads to a single, irresistible conclusion: America needs to begin building a Safeguard ABM missile defense system at once.

COMPARISON OF STRATEGIC MILITARY TRENDS

Although the American gross national product is almost twice that of the Soviet Union, the USSR has for years been spending up to 3 times more than we have in strategic military forces. The current trend warns us that the Russians will have spent up to $100 billion more than us on strategic weapons between now and 1975.

At this moment the total of Soviet strategic missiles is estimated at 2,750 compared with our own 1,710 (including ICBMs, intermediate and medium range missiles, and sub-launched missiles). We're not building any more missiles. They are!

But that's not the whole story. By 1975 the Soviets will, at the present rate, have deployed close to 500 mammoth SS-9 nuclear rockets with 20 to 25 megaton warheads. Each missile will be about 25 times more powerful than our own present Minuteman missiles — each will be about 1,000 more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb.

The Soviet Union has a missile defense. We do not!

THE SOVIET UNION'S MOTIVES

It no longer is necessary to "suppose" that the Russians are aiming for strategic military superiority. We now know that their objective is clear strategic superiority because they have already passed the balance point and are still building at a rate that suggests an all-out war economy. In both word and deed, the Russians have shown that they regard the world struggle as a fight to the finish — a fight that the Soviets intend to win at any cost. Not a single political or military authority has been able to offer any reasonable explanation for the current Russian buildup of staggering destructive power, except in terms of deliberate, coldly calculated aggressive intentions . . .

... like the Soviet intentions and what followed in Czechoslovakia . . . Cuba . . . Vietnam . . . the Berlin Wall . . . Hungary . . . Poland!

The facts about this threat to our security have been carefully studied by a special Committee of distinguished Americans appointed by the American Security Council. Members of the Committee are outstanding experts in their respective fields. They include two Nobel prize winning scientists; the developer of the H-bomb; the developer of over-the-horizon radar; a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; the general who headed the development of our own ICBM forces; the present head of the A.E.C.'s weapons division at Los Alamos; a former commander of the Strategic Air Command; a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; a former commander of the Polaris Submarine fleet and 20 other such authorities whose combined credentials clearly establish them as the most qualified independent group ever to study this complex problem. None of them are "armchair strategists." They know what they are talking about. We believe their collective voice should be heard by every American!

THE ASC COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATION

The Committee has presented its findings and conclusions in the form of a highly readable 72-page book which, summed up, tells us this:

"An American ABM system is the soundest insurance for peace—and AGAINST war—that the United States can buy in 1969 for its security and protection in the 1970's."

The Committee urges that a dependable Safeguard ABM system can and MUST be built at once. Their report observes, "far from being an offensive weapon, the ABM is, in reality, insurance against war. It may well be, in fact, the single most important step the United States can take toward a real and lasting peace at this moment in history."

... and they further emphasize that ABM has become a symbol of our determination to keep America strong. All major defense decisions in the next decade will probably be affected by the acceptance or rejection of ABM on Capitol Hill in the next few weeks!

Comparison of U.S. and Soviet Strategic Forces Expenditures (IN 1964 DOLLARS)

Can anything stop us from building a workable Safeguard ABM System? Just one thing: A LACK OF NATIONAL RESOLVE. It is ironic that—not technology . . . not "hardware" . . . not money . . . but our failure to pull together for a strong America might be the single factor responsible for our downfall.

As a matter of plain common sense, the Russians will have us either by violence or by blackmailing us with the threat of violence, if we allow them to increase their nuclear superiority. History does not reassure us with a single instance of an aggressor nation that restrained itself, once that nation believed it could start a war and win!

WHAT YOU CAN DO—RIGHT NOW!

The Committee's 72-page book on the ABM and the Russian missile threat is written simply, in non-technical language. It will provide every concerned American with the facts he needs to decide about the Safeguard ABM system. You—and your children—should have and read this book.

You can order a copy simply by mailing the form below.

Comparison of Total U.S./Soviet Strategic Missiles

(ICBMs, Sub-launched missiles, medium range ballistic missiles, intermediate range ballistic missiles)

BUT YOU SHOULD DO MORE. Tell your congressman how you feel about Safeguard. Call, wire, write, but be sure to make your voice heard! (If you do not know the names and addresses of your Senators or Representative, call your local newspaper. They will be glad to give you this information.)

GIVE SAFEGUARD YOUR FINANCIAL SUPPORT

Equally important, you can help protect yourself, your family and your country by sending the largest contribution you can, together with the form below, so that we can use this money to purchase more advertising space, and to otherwise get the facts about Safeguard and the missile gap — to every corner of America.

The American Security Council was able to fund the basic study but needs broad citizen support for its "Operation Safeguard" educational program. Thousands of citizens have already helped pay for ads like this. But thousands more concerned Americans must help. Please mail the form below—with your check—today.

What is the American Security Council?

The American Security Council is a non-profit research and educational association dealing solely with national security problems.

The ASC is bi-partisan and seeks the best qualified experts whether they be Republican or Democrat, liberal, moderate or conservative. This broad spectrum of participation is reinforced by the cooperation of 358 colleges and universities and 189 membership organizations representing millions of Americans in a separate series of studies called Peace and Freedom Through Cold War Victory.

By selecting experts on the basis of qualifications rather than political leanings, every ASC study has been accurate in its basic predictions. For example, the two preceding ASC studies on the changing strategic military balance accurately predicted the present adverse strategic military balance. These were prepared at the request of the House Armed Services Committee and published by that committee in 1967 and 1968.

These studies are possible only because experts on ASC committees understand the need and donate their services. Please help back these dedicated Americans.

A LAWFUL AND ORDERLY SOCIETY

As October begins, every segment of the "underground" press, the "new left" press and the more "traditional" Communist press places the greatest emphasis on the fall schedule of protests. Briefly, the schedule is as follows:

October 8-11 — Chicago (Mass demonstrations and other actions—"Bring the War Home")—sponsored by Students For a Democratic Society ("Weatherman" and RYM II factions.)

October 15 — Nationwide — (one-day school shutdown), sponsored by the Vietnam Moratorium Committee

October 25—Chicago (Mass demonstration in support of "The Conspiracy 8"), sponsored by the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam

November 8-15—Nationwide (a variety of local actions), sponsored by a wide spectrum of anti-war groups including the New Mobilization

November 13-14—Nationwide (a tentative two-day school shutdown), sponsored by the Vietnam Moratorium

November 14 — District of Columbia ("March Against Death"), sponsored by the New Mobilization Committee

November 15 — District of Columbia and San Francisco (mass march and rally), sponsored by the New Mobilization Committee

November 15 — District of Columbia

(continuation of the "March Against Death"), sponsored by the New Mobilization Committee

Meanwhile S.D.S., the Yippies and other chronic trouble-makers maintain daily demonstrations at the Federal Building in Chicago, where the eight men accused of instigating the 1968 rioting at the Democratic Convention are being tried.

Most of the organizational effort is being directed toward the November demonstrations in Washington where the sponsors hope to attract upwards of 250,000 people. The full spectrum of the revolutionary left is organized behind them and, while portrayed as "non-violent", it seems almost inevitable that a confrontation with legal authorities will occur.

Most of the disorders taking place in America today arise from a challenge to the authority of the law. The challenge is twofold. One is the spread of mob action which results in the terrorization of entire communities. The other is a more sophisticated challenge by civil disobedience elements that assert a "right" to go over the head of the structures of lawful, representative government and appeal every action of legally constituted government, not to courts or legislative bodies but to people in the mass.

The threat of mobocracy is nothing new in history. Orderly societies always have lived with the danger of a breakdown of learned, responsible behavior within the limits of established rules. The threat of civil disobedience is a newer phenomenon, however. It is intimately related to the pressure of organized ideology and to the current, all-pervasive impact of one mass medium of communication, television.

A revolt against law and order in the United States cannot have any basis of justification. Never in history has there been a society in which there were fewer acts of injustice. Never has a society been structured more thoroughly to provide citizens with opportunity, if they will only take advantage of it. Indeed, the protection of individual rights has been carried to the point where the safety of society itself may have been seriously risked. Nevertheless, the revolt against law and order is a reality.

This revolt, which is without moral purpose, springs from fanaticism. It is the work of doctrinaires who would plunge the United States into internal strife in order to impose a "new society" that they cannot even define with preciseness. The goal, as indicated by the slogans and tracts of campus protesters, is an instant anarchist utopia in which all power is decentralized and all structures of education, industry and government are directed by consensus action among the participants. Such a concept fails to take into account the necessity for executive action and rational decision-making to provide the goods and services that modern man demands. For example, the wonder drugs that help cure severe illnesses could not be manufactured and distributed under the conditions of industrial soviets or other group discussion and decision schemes.

Nevertheless, the civil disobedience theorists and activists seek the forcible imposition of a pattern of disorder that would cost the American people the progress derived from almost 200 years of evolutionary social growth committed to freedom and technical-industrial advancement. The civil disobedience elements in America in 1969 are like the machine-wreckers of England in the 1840s who proposed to promote economic freedom by turning back the clock of the Industrial Revolution.

No one can calculate how much progress already has been lost in the last four or five years because of the marching armies of protest in the United States who have preferred revolutionary to evolutionary modes of advancement. Moreover, those "educated" persons who have spread the doctrine of anarchism have set an example and established a style for those who are prone to appeals to mob action.

Almost every week in the United States, men and women parade with placards protesting some local, state or federal action and demand radical change in conflict with law and order. Business and government representatives on campus are besieged when they arrive to make legitimate, lawful employment proposals to students who are free to accept or reject them. Formations of ROTC units are disrupted and their facilities destroyed or damaged. City halls and State Capitols are invaded by sit-in groups. Marchers swarm outside the residences of mayors, depriving them of rest and privacy. Banks have their operations impeded by demonstrators who oppose these institutions' acquisition of certain overseas branches. Sensation-seekers pour blood on the Selective Service records of draft boards or even commit acts of arson against them. The nation hears the arrogant, threatening cry of "Power to the People" and "Student Power" and of other forms of ideological and group power and aggression.

Behind the cries, placard-waving and marches is a ruthless desire to coerce and to brainwash people for their supposed good, to transform society by any means at hand even though the majority has no desire for society to be altered according to a radical design. This desire results in terrible happenings—the injury of policemen, the destruction of a university's reputation and property, heart attacks by officials who do their duty in the face of mob action, the burning of public and private property and the breakdown of the spirit of good will that is essential to a free society.

The fashionable anarchist ideologues of the day are skillful at exploiting the means of communication, of turning instruments of news and entertainment into channels of propaganda. Eugene Davidson, editor of Modern Age, has stated that "all of them are largely dependent, for their medicine to take hold, on one medium—television."

When reported in print, the engineered protests of civil disobedience leaders necessarily fall into perspective in terms of other news and in the varied interests of readers. Few people would give almost exclusive attention to printed news of small groups of marchers and placard-bearers urging defiance of a law or a rejection of some generally accepted form of civil order. But on television the theatrics of protest are powerful. An unknown fanatic, hurling hatred at the United States or defiance of the rules by which good citizens live, is projected onto television screens before 20 million Americans. Overnight, a lawless nobody becomes a somebody—a celebrity in the cult of civil disobedience. A few hundred or a thousand marchers and placard-bearers, an infinitesimal group in a city with several million people, are projected as a major force on the national scene. The performances before the cameras of the Tom Haydens and the H. Rap Browns, for instance, were produced to brainwash a national audience. Visible drama, brought into America's living rooms, obscured the unreasonableness of the demagogues' demands—an instant super-equality to be achieved by clubbing the country down in street violence if legislation to work miracles was not immediately forthcoming.

The medium of television also has been used to bid thousands of Americans to congregate in their national capital, to paralyze the federal district and to invade Capitol Hill and government offices. This misuse of modern communications is an international phenomenon. Sir Arthur Bryant, the British historian, has noted that the medium has been used to urge "workers to rise against their employers; 'blacks' to beat up 'whites', or vice versa, in revenge of historic injustices, real or imagined; students to 'knock' the 'oldies' and their antiquated taboos and prejudices; and so on." In consequence of this, Sir Arthur very properly said, this is "an age of fomented uproar."

As the sophists of today do their work, urging civil disobedience and other forms of lawlessness, the clamor of strife increases and men's hopes of living in a state of good will diminish. The intolerance of the self-proclaimed "dissenters" makes life increasingly unbearable for the vast majority of people who give assent to the basic values of a free America.

The advocates of civil disobedience who are in violent rejection of our society's structures and values repudiate what Americans have inherited without offering any new structures or beliefs as a substitute. They simply urge a redistribution of wealth, another word for confiscation of existing wealth produced by individual labor. But redistribution of wealth will no more produce a more just society than it will lead to a more economically progressive country. No state can long exist that does not have a fixed authority, a code or set of laws that define proper procedures for change and adjustment of relationships among individuals and groups. Without binding authority set forth in law, a state is not a state but a jungle. Legal anarchy leads to moral anarchy and the collapse of civilized life.

It is imperative, therefore, that the American people, in all their assemblies, especially in their political parties and conventions, uphold the authority of the law and stress the primacy of a peaceful civil order in which the rules of national, state and local government are respected. Respect for law is an essential for concord and contentment. The reason is simple: the law is the protector of the liberty of the individual, for the law is above the arbitrary will of the executive.

If the law is not respected, then sheer power gains respect. The students at Columbia University and other schools who have unlawfully occupied university buildings in effect were trying to prove that might makes right. They had organized "student power" so as to paralyze the university community that previously operated according to the rule of law. The student law-breakers have said they want reform, but in actuality they have paved the way for future power confrontations. They were sought to create conditions that make absolutist solutions a near necessity. The tragic events at Columbia, San Francisco State and elsewhere illustrate the destruction and waste that results when lawful ways of reconciling differences are abandoned and virtual combat is employed inside a nation to force acts of change. Pulitzer-Prize winning journalist Edgar Ansel Mowrer has warned, "Violence condoned or tolerated could spell the end of democracy. For in the long run, people will accept an autocratic regime that guarantees order in preference to a democracy that cannot or will not."

The goal of liberty-loving Americans is to protect the republic against both anarchy and autocracy. This is why the "law and order" issue is such a vital one, why defense of the authority of law concerns so many thoughtful citizens. Happily, the civil disobedience advocates are few in number even though they are noisy. The engineers of riots also are far from numerous. And, very properly, municipal governments are getting tougher in application of laws against civil disorder.

Civil disobedience is an alien concept that smacks of Asian protest movements and in no manner fits into the framework of good government and responsible citizen behavior that is distinctively American. Thus rejection of all contempt for the law, whether by rioters or by those who resort to legal sophistry, is right, just and necessary to the cause of freedom in the United States.

The following is President Elliott's statement concerning the University's role in the October 15 War Moratorium -- The Nation's involvement in the war in Vietnam is of profound concern to Americans, and a nationwide movement to express that concern will culminate on October 15. It is to be hoped that these expressions will be beneficial.

After conferring with faculty and student leaders and with the agreement of the Executive Committee of the Senate, I believe the following best reflects this University's acknowledgement of the activities planned for October 15:

Although George Washington will not close on October 15, we recognize that members of the University community have constructive expressions to contribute both in and out of their classes and offices, and should not be discouraged from doing so. It is suggested, therefore, that examinations or other classroom activities which might penalize absentees on October 15 not be scheduled.

A request from the G.W. Moratorium Committee for use of the yard behind the Library from 11:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. on October 15 will be approved, and classes conducted in classrooms and laboratories in the immediate vicinity will be moved, rescheduled or cancelled according to the instructors' wishes.

Henry W. Geiglein, special agent in charge of the Washington Field Office of the Secret Service, has been appointed to the newly created position of University Director of Safety and Security. Mr. Geiglein will retire from the Secret Service position and assume the post at G.W. on Nov. 1. He will conduct training sessions and institute policies to upgrade the University's Campus Security Force. The appointment is in line with the recommendations made by a joint student-faculty committee on campus security operations.

Mr. Geiglein, 51, was selected because of his background in security operations and his "familiarity with the Washington area and with District problems," according to Vice President H. John Cantini. Mr. Cantini said the appointment "is in keeping with the movement in many universities to change the concept and function [of a security force] from one that locks up buildings to one that provides for the safety and welfare of the entire university community."

Other recommendations of the ad hoc committee that will be implemented include: installing emergency telephones in various places on the campus to provide direct contact with the security office (several of the 18 phones planned already have been installed); providing additional night lighting at key campus areas, such as behind the library and various class buildings; transfer of the campus security office from Stuart Hall to Woodhull House; providing motor scooters for the security force to expedite its 24-hour coverage of the campus; and providing "emergency phone stickers" which give the telephone numbers of the security office, hospital and fire department (these currently are being distributed and are being pasted on all campus telephones).

"Give more...Get back a better community..." is the theme of Washington's 1969 United Givers Fund Campaign. As a member of the National Capital Community, GW begins its campaign today. Keymen will contact members of the University community throughout October and part of November.

A nine-month campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the University Center is underway, under the direction of Roger Craver, Assistant Director of Development. Julian Singman (Columbian College '50), a partner in the Washington law firm of Landis, Cohen, and Singman, is chairman of the campaign, which will run through June 30, 1970. Friends, alumni (except law and medicine), certain businesses, some parents, and foundations are being solicited. A campaign committee, comprised of faculty, students, trustees and alumni is working with Mr. Craver and Mr. Singman.

The University has completed the purchase of the southeast corner of 22nd and H Sts. (733-22nd St. and 2144 H St., N.W.) and the southeast corner of 23rd and Eye St. (2206, 2212, and 2222 Eye St., N.W.) The latter purchase includes the eight-story apartment buildings Milton and Munson Halls. These buildings will continue under the management of the H.L. Rust Co.

Two GW service employees have taken advantage of the free tuition benefits for dependents to give their daughters a University education. A full-time housekeeper has a daughter who entered GW last spring and is enrolled again this fall. Another, employed as a night maid for several years, has a daughter who was admitted this fall. Although GW, like many other universities, has granted free tuition to dependents of faculty members for years, the GW policy of extending this fringe benefit to all full-time administrative, clerical, and service employees was put into effect in February, 1967. The number of administrative and clerical employees taking advantage of the tuition benefits for dependents far exceeds that of faculty.

Michael Novak, provost of the Disciplines College of the State University of New York at Old Westbury, will speak on "The Need for Revolution" in Lisner Auditorium, Oct. 7 at 8:00 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Board of Chaplains. Prior to the evening lecture, Mr. Novak will speak at a noon luncheon meeting at the Union Methodist Church on "Politics, Realism, and Institutions."

Dear Mr. Fisher:

This is in answer to your letter of April 20th.

At first I thought I was being put on. Now I'm not so sure. On the theory that you and the organization you claim to represent are serious, you ought to know the following:

1. I have made a living for over 25 years deciding the difference between good and bad research -- the difference between research that is honest and objective and that which begs the question. Your questionnaire is a joke. It's totally non-professional and totally biased. I won't bore you here with why I say this, but let me know if you'd like the specifics.
2. What do you really mean by "Freedom Academy"? It smells from this vantage point.
3. I don't know, even by name, some of the people you list on your "National Strategy Committee." But I know enough about some of them not to want to be involved with an organization of which they're the leaders, if only nominally. Pat Frawley, Cliff Hood, Bill Knowland, Curtis LeMay and Claire Booth Luce have never impressed me as being the kind who will necessarily make the U.S. a better place to live for my child and grandchildren.

4. Your Central File Index is a lovely prospect. It sounds like a great way to promote mutual trust and respect among the people of this country. From what your folder says, I assume that six million people have dossiers in it. All Communists? All devoted to "revolutionary tactics?" Or simply those you and your associates define as inimical to "National Security?"
5. It's a small thing, but I don't need an identification number -- 766 or any other. I have a name.
6. The basic worry I have about what your operation stands for is that you don't know the difference -- and never will -- between what you term a Yippie and my daughter at Wellesley, who is a totally-concerned college Senior, and who would just like to know that what she thinks is heard and paid attention to in Washington. I had a skinful of that with the late Senator McCarthy, who was not only a fool but destructive.
7. You imply that virtually all Senators to the left of Strom Thurmond and George Murphy are simpletons at least and subversives at worst. How ridiculous can you get?
8. I don't know how you got my name, but I suppose it's by putting together various things like:

Roman Catholic
Anglo-Saxon
Princeton Graduate
Republican Committeeman
Company Owner and Manager
Suburban Resident
Elected Village Official

-- and so forth.

This is what really disturbs me about the way things are going these days. It simply hasn't dawned on the Government that a substantial portion of the "Silent Majority" has no use whatever for the way this country is being led. Just because we don't march or write letters is no sign that we're part of a monolithic school of thought.

9. I'm sending a copy of this letter to:

- a. J. Edgar Hoover who, although he may be sympathetic to your thinking, has an obligation to investigate subversion and un-Americanism on all fronts. It seems to me he has something to work on here.
- b. My local representative in Congress, Richard Ottinger, and the two New York Senators -- Jacob Javits and Charles Goodell. I frequently disagree violently with these men, and I hold no brief for some of the things in which they believe. But they do constitute what little voice I have in Washington.
- c. The National Better Business Bureau. For my personal edification, I'd just like to see if you're legitimate. A lot of funny people have their hands out these days.
- d. Congressman Richard Ichord, Chairman of the House Committee on Internal Security.

10. I have a theory that there are forces at work in the U.S. today, up to and including high elected officials, that are trying to divide the American people by polarizing opinion on key national issues. I'm old enough to remember what happened in the Weimar Republic. So I'm thinking very seriously of running an advertisement in

Mr. James J. McCaffrey

Dear Mr. McCaffrey:

I would like to invite you to join the National Voter Advisory Board of the American Security Council and also to participate in our National Security Issues Poll.

To insure accurate poll tabulation, I have assigned an identification code to each prospective Board member. Your number, Mr. McCaffrey, is 766.

This poll is being strictly limited to members of our National Voter Advisory Board and Members of Congress.

We want to release the results of this poll to President Nixon, the Congress and the national press in a few weeks so please return your questionnaire today.

There are conservative and liberal voting indexes.

But no one puts out a National Security voting index. The ASC, with 15 years experience and a highly respected staff of internal security and foreign affairs experts, is uniquely qualified to prepare such an index.

For example, our staffers are not only expert on strategic military affairs but are also very knowledgeable on the various forces at work internally to destroy our country - the Communist Party, the Black Panthers, SDS, the Yippies, etc., etc.

The ASC has established an outstanding reputation for sound research and accuracy.

Because of this record, all previous ASC studies have received wide publicity in New York newspapers, magazines, radio and TV, as well as nationally. We can expect the same on this.

When it is completed, we will give the results of this poll to each Member of Congress and ask that he complete the questionnaire too.

Many voters are not aware of how some Senators such as Kennedy, Gore, Muskie, Fulbright, Goodell, McGovern, Yarborough and others have taken positions on national security matters which weaken America in its fight against Communism. For example, they all voted against the ABM.

So, we will also carefully analyze the actual national security voting record of each Member of Congress.

We will then compile a National Security Issues Index based on both the questionnaire and their actual voting record.

Key people in both the Republican and Democrat parties have told me that a well-publicized National Security Issues Index would be very influential in the 1970 elections.

If so, the report must be completed by July 1st. We can then have it printed by July 16th, and it can be mailed and in the hands of campaign workers of both parties by the week of July 20th.

But it will take a minimum of 655 hours of research to compile all of the information. The cost will be at least $68,000 and this includes researchers, printing, distribution and publicity for the Index.

An effective publicity effort to make national security one of the central campaign issues in key 1970 races will cost at least $143,500 more.

This crucial project is beyond our present budget so we'll need your help and the help of many concerned Americans to make this a success.

Some of the questions in this poll cover issues being hotly contested in Congress right now. For example, the ABM which passed by only one vote last year is again under attack.

We need your vote and your support. Let Members of Congress know where you stand and find out where they stand. The more Members represented on our Voter Advisory Board, the more influence it will have.

Please complete the enclosed questionnaire and return it to me as soon as possible. We ask each Member of the Voter Advisory Board to contribute a minimum of $10.00 to cover administration of their membership. Everything over $10.00 will be used toward making the poll a success. Your check should be made payable to: ASC Issues Index.

If you will do as much as you can, I promise you I will do all that is humanly possible to make the first National Security Issues Index a huge success.

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher

Why is the work of the American Security Council so important right now?

The Cold War is a psychological hot war, waged by Communism to shape and influence the actions of free men.

"The Cold War is a real and deadly struggle from which only one side will emerge victorious. It is the duty of each citizen to utilize his rights of citizenship to become a discerning Cold War warrior and to encourage others to do likewise."

National Governors' Conference, 1963

"I have said this before and I would like to repeat it; We are at war with Communism and the sooner every red blooded American realizes this the safer we will be." —J. Edgar Hoover

The carefully planned Communist propaganda in U.S. and other Free World Countries has resulted in their dupes—the peaceniks, draftcard burners, pseudo-intellectuals—accepting the idea that resistance to Communism is wrong and that somehow our defense of freedom makes America an aggressor.

"It is vital that the American people understand the nature of this struggle—that they grasp the magnitude of the threat posed by Communism to our free society—that they come to know their adversary in all of his many and devious guises."

General Dwight D. Eisenhower

Thus, the many educational activities of the American Security Council are more urgently needed now than ever.

The American Security Council

The American Security Council, founded in 1955, is a non-profit association engaged in national security research and education with emphasis on meeting the Communist challenge to world freedom.

The American Security Council is no ordinary group of men and women but thinkers and realists who know that the basic Communist goals of world revolution and world conquest have never altered.

The 50-member National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council is made up of 13 present or former heads of ASC member companies (who also serve as the Senior Advisory Board—the ASC's policy board) and 37 other men who have played prominent roles in the nation's history.

The latter 37 men include a former Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, two former Commanders-in-Chief, Pacific; the principal developer of the "H" Bomb, a past president of the American Bar Association; two Nobel Prize winning physicists, a former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dear Mr. Dickson:

Because you are an opinion leader in your community, you have been nominated to serve on the American Security Council's National Voter Advisory Board and to participate in our National Security Issues Poll.

Of course, your nomination to the Voter Advisory Board is subject to your acceptance.

To insure accurate poll tabulation, I have assigned an identification code to each prospective Board Member. Your number, Mr. Dickson, is 918.

This poll is being strictly limited to members of our National Voter Advisory Board and Members of Congress.

We want to release the results of this poll to President Nixon, the Congress and the national press in a few weeks so please return your questionnaire today.

There are conservative and liberal voting indexes.

But no one puts out a National Security voting index. The ASC, with 15 years experience and a highly respected staff of internal security and foreign affairs experts, is uniquely qualified to prepare such an index.

For example, our staff is not only expert on strategic military affairs but is also very knowledgeable on the various forces at work internally to destroy our country, the Communist Party, the Black Panthers, SDS, etc.

Because of the ASC's outstanding reputation for sound research and accuracy, all previous ASC studies have received wide publicity in Florida newspapers, magazines, radio and TV, as well as nationally. We can expect the same on this poll.

When completed, we'll give the results to each Member of Congress and ask that he complete his questionnaire.

Many voters are not aware of how some Senators, such as Kennedy, Gore, Muskie, Fulbright, Goodell, McGovern, Cranston and others, have taken positions on national security matters which weaken America in its fight against

*Partial Listing

2 ENCLOSURE 100-425828-123

Communism. For example, they all voted against the ABM.

So, we will also carefully analyze the actual national security voting record of each Member of Congress.

We will then compile a National Security Issues Index based on both the questionnaire and their actual voting record.

Key people in both the Republican and Democrat parties have told me that a well-publicized National Security Issues Index would be very influential in the 1970 elections.

If so, the report must be completed by July 1st. We can then have it printed by July 16th, and it can be mailed and in the hands of campaign workers of both parties by the week of July 20th.

But it will take a minimum of 655 hours of research to compile all of the information. The cost will be at least $68,000 and this includes researchers, printing, distribution and publicity for the Index.

An effective publicity effort to make national security one of the central campaign issues in key 1970 races will cost at least $143,500 more.

This crucial project is beyond our present budget so we'll need your help and the help of many concerned Americans to make this a success.

Some of the questions in this poll cover issues being hotly contested in Congress right now. For example, the ABM which passed by only one vote last year is again under attack.

We need your vote and your support. Let Members of Congress know where you stand and find out where they stand. The more Members represented on our Voter Advisory Board, the more influence it will have.

Please complete the enclosed questionnaire and return it to me as soon as possible. We ask each Member of the Voter Advisory Board to contribute a minimum of $10.00 to cover administration of their membership. Everything over $10.00 will be used toward making the poll a success. Your check should be made payable to: ASC Issues Index.

If you will do as much as you can, I promise you I will do all that is humanly possible to make the first National Security Issues Index a huge success.

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher

ENCLOSURE 100-425828-123

Why is the work of the American Security Council so important right now?

The Cold War is a psychological hot war, waged by Communism to shape and influence the actions of free men.

"The Cold War is a real and deadly struggle from which only one side will emerge victorious. It is the duty of each citizen to utilize his rights of citizenship to become a discerning Cold War warrior and to encourage others to do likewise."

National Governors' Conference, 1963

"I have said this before and I would like to repeat it; We are at war with Communism and the sooner every red blooded American realizes this the safer we will be."

—J. Edgar Hoover

The carefully planned Communist propaganda in U.S. and other Free World Countries has resulted in their dupes—the peaceniks, draftcard burners, pseudo-intellectuals—accepting the idea that resistance to Communism is wrong and that somehow our defense of freedom makes America an aggressor.

"It is vital that the American people understand the nature of this struggle—that they grasp the magnitude of the threat posed by Communism to our free society—that they come to know their adversary in all of his many and devious guises."

General Dwight D. Eisenhower

Thus, the many educational activities of the American Security Council are more urgently needed now than ever.

The American Security Council

The American Security Council, founded in 1955, is a non-profit association engaged in national security research and education with emphasis on meeting the Communist challenge to world freedom.

The American Security Council is no ordinary group of men and women but thinkers and realists who know that the basic Communist goals of world revolution and world conquest have never altered.

The 50-member National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council is made up of 13 present or former heads of ASC member companies (who also serve as the Senior Advisory Board—the ASC's policy board) and 37 other men who have played prominent roles in the nation's history.

The latter 37 men include a former Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, two former Commanders-in-Chief, Pacific; the principal developer of the "H" Bomb, a past president of the American Bar Association, two Nobel Prize winning physicists, a former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Personal and Confidential

Why is the work of the American Security Council so important right now?

The Cold War is a psychological hot war, waged by Communism to shape and influence the actions of free men.

"The Cold War is a real and deadly struggle from which only one side will emerge victorious. It is the duty of each citizen to utilize his rights of citizenship to become a discerning Cold War warrior and to encourage others to do likewise."

National Governors' Conference, 1963

"I have said this before and I would like to repeat it; We are at war with Communism and the sooner every red blooded American realizes this the safer we will be."

—J. Edgar Hoover

The carefully planned Communist propaganda in U.S. and other Free World Countries has resulted in their dupes—the peaceniks, draftcard burners, pseudo-intellectuals—accepting the idea that resistance to Communism is wrong and that somehow our defense of freedom makes America an aggressor.

"It is vital that the American people understand the nature of this struggle—that they grasp the magnitude of the threat posed by Communism to our free society—that they come to know their adversary in all of his many and devious guises."

General Dwight D. Eisenhower

Thus, the many educational activities of the American Security Council are more urgently needed now than ever.

The American Security Council

The American Security Council, founded in 1955, is a non-profit association engaged in national security research and education with emphasis on meeting the Communist challenge to world freedom.

The American Security Council is no ordinary group of men and women but thinkers and realists who know that the basic Communist goals of world revolution and world conquest have never altered.

The 50-member National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council is made up of 13 present or former heads of ASC member companies (who also serve as the Senior Advisory Board—the ASC's policy board) and 37 other men who have played prominent roles in the nation's history.

The latter 37 men include a former Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, two former Commanders-in-Chief, Pacific; the principal developer of the "H" Bomb, a past president of the American Bar Association, two Nobel Prize winning physicists, a former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

One of the Most Effective Anti-Communist Organizations in the World

"Your work will help keep the lights of freedom burning brightly." General Dwight D. Eisenhower

WASHINGTON REPORT

Washington, June 15, 1970

WR 70-11

THE WAR FROM WITHIN

In recent weeks, concerned citizens, aware of the threat of revolution against America's free society, have ceased to think of insurrection as some distant possibility and have come to see "the revolution" as here and now.

The fury of the New Left reaction to President Nixon's Cambodian incursion, a decision consonant with historic American efforts to defeat communist aggressor forces, illustrates not only the violence in the "peace" movement but the profound rejection of lawful authority on the part of a segment of the American intelligentsia and those who are under their influence.

The trial of eight Black Panthers in New Haven, Conn., and the clash between National Guardsmen and protesters on the Kent State University campus, in which four students died, provided the triggers for protest on an unprecedented scale. As a result of disorders, involving seizure and burning of university buildings, destruction of automobiles and shops and intimidation of those opposed to the protests, more than 200 colleges and universities have been shut down for various periods.

"The Most Critical Period"

Evangelist Billy Graham, commenting on these disorders, has concluded that the United States is facing its "most critical period since the Civil War." Indeed no President since Abraham Lincoln, who had to deal with massive draft riots in New York City and "copperhead" anti-war sentiment in Washington, has had to cope with the degree of internal strife as President Nixon has been confronted with in recent weeks.

To many observers, some of the most prestigious American colleges and universities seem to be in the grip of hysteria—a madness which infects administrators and faculty as well as students.

At this point, it is well to bear in mind what Charles William Eliot, president of Harvard University, said two generations ago about the goals of university education. "The worthy fruit of academic culture," he said, "is an open mind, trained to careful thinking, instructed in the methods of philosophic investigation, acquainted in a general way with the accumulated thought of past generations, and penetrated with humility."

That scholarly conception of a university seems to have been destroyed by the commitment of thousands of contemporary university people to violence and mob action. At Yale University, where an entire campus threatened to go berserk in support of eight Black Panthers charged with murder and kidnapping, the university became a haven for political extremists and fanatics, with the blessing of the President of the University and many faculty members. Only the presence of overwhelming force in the form of National Guardsmen and regular troops in the area saved the university and community alike.

At New Haven, members of the Youth International Party (the Yippies) pulled down the American flag and ran up their black and green flag, explaining its design in these words: "Black is for anarchy, the red star is for our five-point program and the leaf is marijuana, which is for getting ecologically stoned without polluting the atmosphere."

The Yippies housed and fed at Yale chanted:

Guns and bombs and insurrection
We will take a new direction
We won't wait for evolution
We will make a revolution.

The New "New Order"

Americans old enough to remember the emergence of the Nazi movement in Germany see a parallel between the hysteria, intimidation and politicalization of U.S. universities and the stormtrooper domination of ancient German educational institutions. German professors and guest speakers who resisted the Nazi tyranny were shouted down and threatened, as is the case on American college campuses where the New Left holds sway. In an ominous reminder of that era, "Chicago 7" defendant John Froines told 3,500 University of Connecticut students on May 8, "What has come out of the past decade is the vision of a new order and we want that order to be born non-violently. If we can't have it that way, then we shall fight for it." On May 13, another defendant, Lee Weiner, told a Hobart College crowd, "I am a revolutionary. I would rather see this country burned to the ground than the way it is."

A generation ago, Americans said: "It Can't Happen Here." But it can happen here. It is happening here—at the Berkeley campus of the University of California, Yale University, the University of Wisconsin, Buffalo University and scores of institutions. A new totalitarianism is sweeping across the campus, creating a climate of irrationality, destroying reasoned debate, and substituting shouts of "up against the wall" for logic and marshaling of facts.

The loss in many colleges and universities of the capacity for reasoned analysis is a loss the United States cannot afford. Perhaps the most critical breakdown affects thinking on the subject of the use of force in society. This breakdown has been most alarming with respect to the deaths on the campus of Kent State University in Ohio.

The Use of Lawful Force

Some protesters have said that if it is wrong for student demonstrators to use force against college administrations and campus-security forces it also is wrong to use force to quell disturbances.

What such individuals overlook is the distinction between lawful and unlawful use of force. No organized society can dispense with the use of force lawfully directed for the legitimate purposes of society. Utopians may envision the possibility of a state operating without the use of force on any occasion and without any instrumentalities — police or armed forces—for the exercise of force in peace-keeping. But human experience makes clear that totally disarmed societies cannot long exist. They fall prey to invasion or assault from within. Thus civilized nations establish armies and organize police forces. Soldiers and policemen are furnished arms and are expected to use them to protect nation and community as the need arises.

Kent State

It is against this background of understanding that the situation at Kent State should be understood. National Guardsmen — citizen soldiers — were on the Kent State campus at the direction of the Governor and because campus authorities and police were unable to maintain peace and good order. Had student protestors refrained from violence and displayed a decent respect for the rights and opinions of others, the National Guard units would not have been called to the campus and the deaths of the students would not have taken place.

A dangerous situation was created at Kent State, only a few days before the incident, when Jerry Rubin—who was convicted in federal court in Chicago of crossing state lines to incite a riot—delivered a harangue on campus. He told Kent State students: "We have all got to become riot inciters . . .

There's gonna be riots everywhere."

Shortly thereafter, Kent State was plunged into turmoil and four students died.

Lost sight of in the furor over the death of the four students was the situation of the National Guardsmen. One of the Guardsmen on duty at Kent State made these telling points in talking to a Washington Post reporter:

"We don't have face shields, we don't have flak vests. We just have helmets and pieces of cotton uniforms and that's it, and so we're accused of attacking unarmed, innocent students because nobody considers bricks and stones and concrete slabs as weapons."

Lost sight of as well was the reaction of a Kent State graduate—not now a student—who was a participant in the violence there. On May 12 Ron Weissberger told an audience at Western Michigan University that violent revolution was "the only alternative"—"I'm not normally a violent person but ever since I was five years old or so, and began to break the law, I got even (for being punished). It's a lot of fun to throw rocks at policemen."

The central fact in the Kent State tragedy is that National Guardsmen, operating under lawful orders, were assaulted by a mob and struck by lethal missiles. They could have been maimed or killed as many law enforcement officers have been during other disturbances caused by rioters and "peace" workers. A spokesman for the Ohio National Guard very properly said that "every man has a right to defend himself."

The Weapons System

It should be realized that sticks and stones, or bricks and pieces of concrete, constitute a weapons system. James Burnham, in his book "The War We Are In," pointed out that "stones function as weapons a good deal oftener than A-bombs, and have won many more battles . . . It is terribly hard for Americans to understand something so simple." He noted that in the cold war battles of our era "it is most sticks and stones . . . and the mobs, of course; the mobs are a primary element of the 'weapons systems' that have been deciding most battles and campaigns."

If the United States is confronted with a war from within, an insurrectionary struggle, the weapons system to be employed against America almost certainly will be a mob armed with bricks and pieces of concrete—not automatic weapons. The public must understand the terms of conflict and the likely weapons. And if more deaths are to be avoided, then the protestors must understand that they will be confronted with lawful force in the degree and of the type necessary to restore peace and public order.

To be sure, the American people hope that the use of gunfire will not be necessary to halt insurrectionary elements or to prevent the wrecking of public and private property. It may be that new forms of peace-keeping weapons can be utilized. Tear gas is not always effective. If wind conditions are poor, gas is useless in restraining a mob. If a mob becomes a "human wave" in a confined area even troops armed with bayonets may not be able to halt the onrushing tide of human flesh.

In European countries having long experience with communist mob disturbances, police are equipped with water cannon trucks. These trucks can direct powerful streams of water at a mob, breaking it up without causing death to individuals in the mob. Perhaps U.S. police and National Guard units should be equipped with water cannon trucks. Provision of such equipment would be expensive, of course, and such devices cannot be furnished wherever there is a campus on which nihilists have the upper hand. It also is unrealistic to suppose that regular troops, with extensive training in riot control measures, can be assigned to every disturbance. The U.S. hasn't enough regulars to assume such a responsibility. In the last analysis, therefore, the states will have to continue to rely on the National Guardsmen with pretty much the same equipment they have today.

What Is The National Guard?

While Guardsmen have been severely and unfairly criticized since the Kent State incident, the record shows that they perform creditably in a wide variety of difficult situations. Moreover, the National Guard is broadly representative of the American people and cannot be viewed as unsympathetic to the people. The Guard is made up of civilians—salesmen, school teachers, mechanics, lawyers, indeed students, and the other components in a typical community. Many Guardsmen are of the same generation as the privileged radical protestors on college campuses. In this connection, it is worthwhile raising the question of whether there would have been nationwide mourning by "peace" elements had four Guardsmen been stoned to death by protestors on the Kent State campus. It is exceedingly unlikely that the "peace" movement would have shed a tear. No tears are shed by student protestors when policemen are injured or killed in disturbances engineered by radicals.

The National Guard is just that—a vital insurance policy for the law-abiding, decent elements in this country. It is a shield for countless respectable people and communities who are confronted with the menace of a comparatively small but highly militant and dangerous insurrection element. If the National Guardsmen are disarmed or instructed not to use lawful force in protection of their lives or private and public property, the country will be naked to the aggression of those who have declared war against American society.

Dear [Redacted]

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED

DATE 7/24/00 BY 3063210/100/100

Because you are an opinion leader in Rockingham, you have been nominated to serve on the National Voter Advisory Board of the American Security Council and also to participate in our National Security Issues Poll.

This is, of course, subject to your acceptance.

To insure accurate poll tabulation, I have assigned an identification code to each prospective Board member.
Your code number, [Redacted], is 128.

We want to release the results of this poll to President Nixon, the Congress and the national press in a few weeks so please return your questionnaire today.

There are several voting indexes, but no one puts out a National Security voting index. The ASC, with 15 years experience and a highly respected staff of internal security and foreign affairs experts, is uniquely qualified to prepare such an index.

For example, our staffers are not only expert on strategic military affairs but are also very knowledgeable on the various forces at work internally to destroy our country - the Communist Party, the Black Panthers, SDS, the Yippies, etc.

Because of the ASC's reputation for sound research and accuracy, all previous ASC studies have received nationwide publicity in newspapers, magazines, radio and TV. We can expect the same on this.

When it is completed, we will give the results of this poll to each Member of Congress and ask that he complete the questionnaire too.

Many voters are not aware of how some Senators such as Kennedy, Gore, Muskie, Fulbright, Goodell, McGovern, Cranston, and others have taken positions on national security matters which weaken America's defense against Communism. For example, they all oppose President Nixon on both missile defense and Vietnam.

ENCLOSURE

We will also carefully analyze the actual national security voting record of each Member of Congress.

We will then compile a National Security Issues Index based on both the questionnaire and their actual voting record.

Dear [Redacted]

Your letter of July 16th, with enclosure, has been received, and I want to thank you for your kind remarks regarding my administration of the FBI.

In connection with your inquiry, I would like to be of assistance; however, this Bureau is strictly an investigative agency of the Federal Government and, as such, neither makes evaluations nor draws conclusions as to the character or integrity of any organization, publication or individual. I hope you will not infer either that we do or do not have data in our files relating to the American Security Council. I am returning the leaflet you forwarded.

I have also referred a copy of your letter to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, Suitland, Maryland 20233, for any information he can furnish you concerning that agency's distribution of names and addresses.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Enclosed is literature requesting funds and answers to questions. I recieve weekly and sometimes twice a week from different groups. On the surface they seem legitimate, yet I'm beginning to wonder.

Recently I read leftist groups are being funded by "well-meaning" citizens and I do believe it.

I have always supported your ideas and approve wholly of your stewardship, therefore I trust you.

Is it possible to get a list of approved organizations, following your line of thought; protecting this Country, instead of tearing it apart? so I'd like the list, please.

I never heard of this outfit. It sounds good and the address sounds right, but I do believe good citizens are unwittingly being used as pawns to wreck this country, and I refuse to be one.

Please send list- the good organizations and also the black list.

I called the local Post office for your address and they don't have it. In doing so I told the employee I was receiving too many unsolicited requests for money & he wondered how my name got on a list such as the kind of mail I receive-none pornographic.

So I told him I'd read - I read much political news-the Census had passed out its list and was selling it for 60⁰⁰ - He said not the Fed. Govt! Must be state, & to write you concerning this, to mail to Philadelphia Postal Insp. That doesn't satisfy me so am hoping this insufficient address to D. C. reaches you.

Dear [Redacted]

Because you are an opinion leader in West Newton, you have been nominated to serve on the National Voter Advisory Board of the American Security Council and also to participate in our National Security Issues Poll.

This is, of course, subject to your acceptance.

To insure accurate poll tabulation, I have assigned an identification code to each prospective Board member. Your code number, [Redacted] is 275.

We want to release the results of this poll to President Nixon, the Congress and the national press in a few weeks so please return your questionnaire today.

There are several voting indexes, but no one puts out a National Security voting index. The ASC, with 15 years experience and a highly respected staff of internal security and foreign affairs experts, is uniquely qualified to prepare such an index.

For example, our staffers are not only expert on strategic military affairs but are also very knowledgeable on the various forces at work internally to destroy our country - the Communist Party, the Black Panthers, SDS, the Yippies, etc.

Because of the ASC's reputation for sound research and accuracy, all previous ASC studies have received nationwide publicity in newspapers, magazines, radio and TV. We can expect the same on this.

When it is completed, we will give the results of this poll to each Member of Congress and ask that he complete the questionnaire too.

Many voters are not aware of how some Senators such as Kennedy, Gore, Muskie, Fulbright, Goodell, McGovern, Cranston, and others have taken positions on national security matters which weaken America's defense against Communism. For example, they all oppose President Nixon on both missile defense and nuclear war.
ENCLOSURE 100-425828-127

We will also carefully analyze the actual national security voting record of each Member of Congress.

We will then compile a National Security Issues Index based on both the questionnaire and their actual voting record.

Key people in both the Republican and Democratic parties have told me that a well-publicized National Security Issues Index would be very influential in the 1970 elections.

If so, the report must be completed by August 1st. We can then have it printed by August 16th, and it can be mailed and in the hands of campaign workers of both parties by the week of August 20th.

But, it will take a minimum of 655 hours of research to compile all of the information. The cost will be at least $68,000 and this includes researchers, printing, distribution and publicity for the Index.

This crucial project is beyond our present budget so we'll need your help and the help of many other concerned Americans to make this a success.

As you know, some of the questions in this poll cover issues being hotly contested in Congress right now.

In the letter they assigned me a code number and included a questionnaire for me to fill out and return to them so that they could compile a Security Index, which on completion, is to be presented to President Nixon and the Congress. Dear Mr. Hoover:

The National Security Issues Poll is fast developing into a form of national referendum. It has become so important that the completion date has just been extended to August 31.

The reason for its increased importance is that 136 newspapers across the country are using it to poll their readership. Nothing like this has ever been done before. See the enclosed copy of the poll as published in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat readers were 87.8% for U.S. military superiority, 85.1% for the Safeguard ABM and 80.8% for victory in Vietnam.

The Poll results are showing a dramatic difference between the views of the American people and the votes of the dove members of the U.S. Congress.

You can help expand this Poll into a national referendum by asking your local paper to run the Poll in a form similar to that used by the Globe-Democrat, publish the results, and send them to me.

You won't be alone in this because many of the 31,512 opinion leaders serving on our National Voter Advisory Board - a few per community across the country - will also be talking to their editors. I've enclosed a partial listing of the distinguished citizens who serve on this Board.

The opposition senses how effective this will be and is already attacking the Poll.

For example, New York Post Editor, James A. Wechsler, devoted a full column to alleging that the "journalistic eminences" in the American Security Council are involved in a "phony poll".

17 AUG 24 1970

The Institute for American Democracy (IAD) complains that the American Security Council is "preparing a national Security Index rating to be used against Congressional doves in the fall campaign".

54 AUG 28 1970

FILE 100-425828

The IAD said, "Incumbents getting a low Security Index Rating from an outfit as prestigious as the American Security Council can find this a handicap."

The thread which runs through all the attacks is a high respect for the American Security Council's capabilities. As the IAD said, the Council "pursues its objectives with advertising agency precision and, in the American competitive tradition, plays to win."

The Poll stage of this project has grown beyond our best expectations, and the costs have escalated accordingly. To "play to win" at this new level, we need another $28,000.

In May, 1969, our National Strategy Committee concluded that the Soviet Union had "jumped into the lead in overall strategic missile strength". The Soviets have continued to deploy more missiles while the U.S. has not deployed any missiles for over 3 years.

Thus, the 1970 election may be the last chance the voters have to influence the outcome of the Soviet-U.S. confrontation.

When the Poll is completed, we will publish information on 1) how far the U.S. is behind the Soviet Union on strategic weapons, 2) the Poll results showing how the American people feel on national security issues and, 3) how members of the U.S. Senate and House have voted on these issues.

Key people in both the Republican and Democratic parties continue to tell me that this campaign, especially the National Security Issues Index of Congressional voting records, can be very influential in the 1970 elections if adequately promoted.

A mass media voter education campaign, including full page ads, and distributing several million booklets to concerned citizens, will cost at least $216,000.

Because of the high stakes, we ask your further help in this campaign. Please give as much as you can - $10, $100 or more. Please make your check payable to "ASC Issues Index" and return it to me as soon as possible in the enclosed envelope.

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher

Voice Your Stand On Security Issues

The Globe-Democrat this weekend joins the American Security Council in conducting its first straw poll on national security issues.

The poll, national in scope, also is being conducted by other newspapers throughout the country. Results are intended to give the President and the Congress a better understanding of the public's wishes on national defense and foreign affairs.

Results of the poll conducted by The Globe will be published after tabulation. These results also will be combined by the American Security Council with other participating newspapers' results, and published.

THE AMERICAN Security Council is a non-profit research and educational organization concerned solely with issues affecting United States security. It is dedicated to the principle that Americans must rise above partisan differences to work together for the nation's security.

The council is supported by dues paid by business interests, labor unions and public contributions. Its headquarters are in Washington but it is organizing state councils. The Missouri Council on National Security, which is the pilot council, is headed by Gov. Hearnes.

To help shape our national policies, check the boxes which most nearly agree with your views, and mail to the address shown above.

The Freedom Studies Center

A principal Council project is to help develop the Freedom Studies Center for citizen leadership training.

The Center is located on a 683 acre retreat in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains at Boston, Virginia . . . just 70 miles from Washington, D.C.

It already has one of the finest seminar facilities in America. Over 1,000 opinion leaders have attended its seminars—many of which were co-sponsored by the American Security Council.

The Freedom Studies Center is planned to become a private freedom academy or "Cold War College" to fully train dedicated young men and women to be leaders in defending our freedom.

The Freedom Studies Center has one of the finest seminar facilities in America.

Leaders for State Councils on National Security will be trained in seminars like this.

Councils on National Security

The American Security Council is organizing state Councils on National Security to improve public understanding of national security issues and to encourage responsible citizenship.

The pilot council, the Missouri Council on National Security, is headed by Democratic Governor Warren E. Hearnes as Honorary Chairman. Congressman Richard H. Ichord, Chairman of the U.S. House Internal Security Committee, is Chairman of the Advisory Board. The Executive Committee includes other outstanding Missourians of both political parties, newspaper publishers, radio and TV station managers (including network VPs), labor, business, religious and civic leaders. It also includes the chief executives of state-wide membership organizations such as the Missouri Teachers Association, the Missouri Department of the American Legion and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce.

These councils are a cooperative venture with the Institute for American Strategy and other national and local groups.

The American Security Council

The American Security Council is a non-profit research and educational association dealing solely with issues affecting our Nation's security.

The Council is dedicated to the principle that national security is every citizen's responsibility and that Americans must rise above partisan differences to work together in the interest of our nation's security.

Thus, it is a means through which the private sector of our society can work on a bipartisan basis to help meet the Communist challenge to peace and freedom.

This means that the American Security Council works with Republicans and Democrats, liberals and conservatives, labor and business, competing forms of mass media, different religious groups, different levels of education, and Federal and local government.

This broad spectrum includes the cooperation of 358 colleges and universities and 189 membership organizations representing millions of Americans in a series of studies called "Peace and Freedom Through Cold War Victory".

The American Security Council is supported by dues paid by businesses and labor unions and by contributions from the general public.

You are invited to support the broad-based programs of the American Security Council.

COOPERATION IN Defending Freedom

Bipartisan Recognition

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
February 4, 1970

Dear Mr. Fisher:

In surveying the events of the past year it is clear that the passage of the legislation authorizing a Safeguard ABM system was of monumental importance in maintaining our vital national security posture. The American Security Council played a major role in achieving that victory.

It was altogether in keeping with the historic role of your organization in supporting programs which assure an adequate defense for the nation. I want you to know that your group's understanding, commitment to the national security and its active support are sources of great strength to me as Commander-in-Chief. I am deeply appreciative of the important work which you have done.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Mr. John M. Fisher
President
American Security Council
1101 Seventeenth Street, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036

"You will keep the American public abreast of Communism's efforts to spread itself day-by-day over the whole earth. You will help our people understand what they are faced with in this most fateful of all wars. Your work will help keep the lights of freedom burning brightly."

General Dwight D. Eisenhower
on inaugural broadcast of American Security Council Radio Washington Report

"The will to resist aggression is strengthened by our understanding of the alternative to turning back a foe who would deny man's freedom. That understanding grows through education. It is a responsibility which public and private institutions must share. I commend your commitment to this great and urgent work of defending freedom and promoting peace. You have my every wish for success."

President Lyndon B. Johnson
From official message on the occasion of the Dedication of the Freedom Studies Center.

"... we need and need desperately people dedicated to the principles of the American Security Council and the Missouri Council on National Security."

"We are indeed fortunate that some Americans had the foresight, as the leaders of the American Security Council have had, in establishing the American Security Council back in 1955 to provide this nation with a vehicle through which the private sector of our society could use its talents and its resources to maintain the peace and freedom of our country."

Congressman Richard H. Ichord (D., Mo.)
Chairman, House Internal Security Committee

"The study entitled 'The Changing Strategic Military Balance, U.S.A. vs. U.S.S.R.' prepared for our Committee by the American Security Council was widely acclaimed for its balanced and judicious analysis of current strategic problems."

Congressman L. Mendel Rivers (D., S.C.)
Chairman, House Armed Services Committee

Studies

The American Security Council conducts comprehensive studies on key issues. Since its experts are selected on the basis of qualifications rather than political leanings, every study published has been accurate in its predictions. Major newspapers across the country have editorially endorsed each of the following studies:

- The ABM and the Changed Strategic Military Balance: U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A. (1969)
- Research Reports on Strategic Military Balance at request of the House Armed Services Committee:
 1. The Changing Strategic Military Balance: U.S.A. vs. U.S.S.R. (1967)
 2. The Changing Strategic Naval Balance: U.S.S.R. vs. U.S.A. (1968)
- The Role of Business in the Cold War. (1966)
- Guidelines for Cold War Victory. (1964)
- National Security Implications of the Nuclear Test Ban Negotiations. (1961)
- A Threat to National Security: Communist China's Admission into the United Nations. (1961)
- Communist Control of Cuba: A Serious Threat to National Security. (1961)

Library and Research Center

The American Security Council is organized on the concept that "FREEDOM NEEDS FACTS, NOT FRICTION". Thus the foundation of the Council's operation is its library and research center on national security.

This library and research center is the fact base for the Council's studies, newsletter, radio programs and other educational activities.

The library and research center includes the largest private collection on revolutionary activities in America. Over $2,000,000 has been invested in the library. The size of the library is indicated by its central index which contains over 6,000,000 cards.

Index of over 6,000,000 cards is the key to the research center library.

The library includes the largest private collection on revolutionary activities in America.

Washington Report Newsletter

The authoritative Washington Report newsletter is published weekly. It is an original source publication and is frequently:

- used as required reading at such institutions as the National War College, and the Army and Navy War Colleges,
- reprinted by newspapers and used as basis for editorials,
- reprinted in Congressional Record (recently one issue was inserted into the Record by nine different Members of Congress).

Washington Report Radio Program

Now in its sixth year and serving an ever-widening audience the Washington Report is America's only nationwide daily radio news program exclusively devoted to developments affecting the security of this nation and the rest of the free world.

The Washington Report features Dr. Walter H. Judd, one of the nation's senior foreign affairs experts, as Editor, and Rep. Richard H. Ichord, Chairman of the U. S. House Internal Security Committee, as Legislative Editor.

Broadcast five days a week on a nationwide network, it provides in-depth analysis in a factual, fair and easy to understand style. In producing the Washington Report, Dr. Judd and Congressman Ichord are assisted by a team of experts and a professional news staff.

Radio Free Americas

The American Security Council is concerned with the freedom of all the Americas.

Radio Free Americas is a daily Spanish language program service now broadcast over 38 stations throughout the Americas.

Radio Free Americas scripts are carried as daily newspaper columns in eleven major newspapers in the United States, Latin America and Spain.

Castro's propaganda machine regularly attacks this program and its distinguished editor, Dr. Herminio Portell-Vila. Dr. Portell is an internationally renowned Cuban historian, radio-television commentator and former diplomat.

National Security Issues Index

The more facts citizens have about key issues and about how political candidates stand on these issues, the better democracy will work.

With this in mind, the American Security Council has initiated a voter education program which includes publicizing the national security voting records of United States Senators and Representatives.

These voting records will be compared both with the views of the National Voter Advisory Board and with the views of the general public.

The American Security Council's National Voter Advisory Board is composed of citizens from all segments of society who are opinion leaders in their own communities across the entire country.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, Director
Fed. Bureau Of Investigation
U. S. Dept Of Justice
Washington, D. C. 20535

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I am enclosing an advance copy of the OPERATION ALERT report which compares our National Security Poll (115,599 participants) with the voting record of each Member of Congress. We now urgently need your help because the 1970 elections will decide whether or not our nation survives.

Why? Because the United States is now number 2 in strategic military power. Already the Soviet Union has gained a 6 to 1 superiority in missile megatonnage. Unless we try harder, the Soviets will soon be able to have their way regardless of our wishes!

Yet, in the face of this clear threat, a coalition of U.S. Senators and Congressmen have organized to force reductions in our defense budget. Largely through their efforts, our strategic power has been cut back 40% in the past 5 years, while the Soviets have increased theirs by 400%!

The reason that this election can be so decisive is that 45% of the U. S. Senators up for re-election are part of this coalition, the lowest-rating of these are: Goodell, Hart, Kennedy, Proxmire, Tydings and Williams.

By letter, I am inviting 2,000,000 voters to participate in OPERATION ALERT to help warn other voters as to the stakes in this election. In addition, we plan 200 full page newspaper ads, prime TV spots and other major programs. This will cost at least $238,000 beyond our present funds.

We are also asking voters to let President Nixon know that they'll back him against the disarmament lobby to make America Number 1 again.

We need immediate help and must turn to you for financial support. Please sign the enclosed reply envelope to let Mr. Nixon know that you will support him in making the U.S.A. Number 1 again! We'll place your full reply in a special "evidence of support" presentation binder for the President, Mr. Hoover.

What is a strategically secure America worth to you? $5000, $1000, $200, $25, $10? You can't put a price tag on survival. But you can help by sending as much as you can afford. Working together we can make America Number 1 again, and pass on to our children a secure Washington.

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher

OPERATION ALERT

The United States is now Number Two in Strategic Military Power. Most Americans believe that we should try harder.

BUT a large coalition of Senators and Congressmen is trying to reduce our strength further.

Operation Alert is a multi-organization voter education program. Its purpose is to alert American voters to the reality that the United States is falling behind the Soviet Union in nuclear weapons so fast that the 1970 elections may be their last chance to vote for "Peace through Strength."

National security issues are so important that all voters should carefully consider the national security positions of each candidate in the 1970 elections. The inside fold shows a National Security Voting Index for each member of Congress.

The American Security Council is a non-profit research and education association dealing exclusively with national security problems:

All concerned Americans are invited to cooperate in this educational program.

Operation Alert is being coordinated by:

Medium Bombers	700 Badgers and Blinders	Variable	0	0
Totals*	3,500	10,330	2,260	1,730

*(Megatonnage totals do not include Heavy or Medium Bomber payloads or Orbital Bombardment System Warheads.)

SOURCES OF STRATEGIC BALANCE FIGURES

The figures shown here have been compiled from a wide range of public sources such as speeches and testimony by Secretary of Defense Laird; congressional committee reports; annual issues of the Military Balance of the Institute for Strategic Studies, London; Department of Defense releases; Jane's Fighting Ships, 1970-71, etc.

The Institute for Strategic Studies and *Time magazine both list Soviet medium bombers in the strategic balance. The ASC agrees that they should be included because these are comparable in range and payload to the B-47, the B-58 and the FB-111, all of which have been classified as "strategic bombers" by the Pentagon. The Soviet Badgers and Blinders (medium bombers) can bomb the United States, either with air refueling or on one-way missions.

Soviet Intermediate Range and Medium Range Ballistic Missiles are included in the strategic balance by both the Institute for Strategic Studies and by *Time magazine. The ASC agrees because they are targeted on the heart of NATO and on the U.S. forces in Western Europe.

Submarine-Launched Cruise Missiles (SLCM) are included in the strategic balance because they can be used against coastal targets in the United States. The practical difference between the SLBM and the SLCM is that the 300-500 mile range SLCM must be delivered further by submarine.

No megatonnage figures are shown for bombers because of the many different possible bomb loadings which can vary with range and nature of target. Although the U.S.S.R. has more bombers, the U.S. has a substantial advantage in total bomber payload capacity.

U.S. STRENGTH OVERSTATED

While there are differences between various sources as to methods of counting strategic strength, the fact is that the total U.S. strength is greatly overstated in this strategic balance chart because these are peacetime figures. Since United States strategic planning is based on deterrence, with no real U.S. first strike capability, the more realistic measure of the U.S. power is that which might be left after a Soviet first strike. Thus, the U.S. side of the balance should be reduced by 50 to 80 percent.

For example, Secretary Laird estimated that when the Soviets have 420 SS-9's They could probably destroy 95 percent of our Minuteman force." At the present rate of deployment, the Soviets will reach this level before the first U.S. ABM sites are operational in 1974 or 1975.

Since the Strategic Air Command is no longer keeping B-52's on "airborne alert," the U.S. strategic bomber force is vulnerable to attack by submarine-launched ballistic missiles from the Atlantic Ocean, Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific Ocean. The reason for this is that SAC would have less than fifteen minutes, after missile launch, to get its planes off the ground.

Also, at least twenty of the forty-one Polaris submarines are in port or dry dock at any one time and thus highly vulnerable to attack by submarine-launched cruise or ballistic missiles.

Contrary to some recent reports, MIRVs do not change the over-all strategic balance. MIRV systems on both sides are roughly comparable number-wise. Moreover, MIRVs reduce the total megatonnage payload of an individual missile.

The growing imbalance surely makes the U.S. more vulnerable to blackmail in crisis situations. As the imbalance grows, the Soviets may also be tempted to consider a first strike—especially since they are deploying very expensive first strike weapons such as the SS-9.

STRATEGIC MILITARY BALANCE

SOVIET UNION NOW AHEAD OF UNITED STATES IN STRATEGIC MILITARY POWER — GAP WIDENING FAST

There has not been an arms race; the Soviets have been running forward at full speed all by themselves.

U.S. House Armed Services Committee
Military Procurement Authorization Report.
April 24, 1970

Thus, in the space of five years—from 1965 to 1970 . . . the Soviet Union has virtually quadrupled the total megatonnage in its strategic offensive force . . . In that same period the United States . . . reduced its megatonnage by more than 40%.

Secretary of Defense Melvin E. Laird
Associated Press Annual Luncheon
April 20, 1970

In the case of ballistic missile submarines, the Soviets have assigned priority to surpassing our U.S. Polaris fleet . . . We know they are patrolling in areas off the coast of the United States, presumably with each battery of 16 missiles targeted on our cities.

Joint Committee on Atomic Energy
Congress of the United States
Report on Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program.
Released July 16, 1970

"Those of responsible opinion in the United States are worried about the military posture and budget of the U.S. Navy, which is considered to be inadequate to meet world-wide national and international commitments . . . While the USA has been severely reducing her Navy, the Soviet Union continues maritime expansion at a rapid rate . . . It seems that once in her stride there is no stopping the Soviet Union in her naval progress . . . The [spectacular] expansion of Soviet maritime power was a military phenomenon of the 1960's which looks like rising to a flood tide in the 1970's . . ."

Raymond V. B. Blackman, Editor
Jane's Fighting Ships, 1970-71

As noted in the military balance chart, the U.S.S.R. is ahead of the U.S. in total number of strategic nuclear delivery vehicles by 3500 to 2260 and can launch a missile attack against the United States six times as powerful in total megatonnage as any the United States could mount by missile.

Since the Cuban missile crisis in 1962, the United States has been unilaterally disarming by cutting back on both numbers of strategic weapons systems and on deliverable megatonnage. As soon as the U.S. started cutting back, the U.S.S.R. started all out to achieve strategic military superiority.

As the ASC's National Strategy Committee pointed out in its June, 1967 strategic balance report, prepared at the request of the U.S. House Armed Services Committee:

"The preponderance of evidence points to the conclusion that the Soviet Union is succeeding in its massive drive toward strategic military superiority and that the United States is cooperating in this effort by slowing down its side of the arms race."

In this 1967 report, the National Strategy Committee concluded that by 1971 the U.S.S.R. could be as far ahead of the U.S. as the U.S. was ahead of the U.S.S.R. in 1962.

Secretary Laird has made strenuous efforts to alert America to the hard realities of our declining strategic strength. He now seems to be gradually correcting the erroneous public view, projected by Secretaries McNamara and Clifford, that "all is well" on the strategic front.

However, Secretary Laird hasn't yet convinced many members of the U.S. Senate and has had to reduce his budget requests in order to get them appropriated. Even so, the Senate has been reducing the defense budget further and has been just barely approving the requests for a limited Safeguard ABM defense against enemy missiles.

As Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said on August 20, 1970, "In the current fiscal year the expenditures for defense, as a percentage of the Gross National Product, will be the lowest since 1950."

NATIONAL SECURITY ISSUES POLL

In a true democracy, decisions on such vital matters as military preparedness should reflect the will of the people.

Therefore, we must ask, "does the trend toward unilateral disarmament represent the will of most Americans, or the will of special interest pressure groups?"

In seeking the answer to this question, the American Security Council conducted a National Security Issues Poll Poll. The response of the 42,946 who did both is shown under "A" below.

The response of the 45,456 who participated in the Poll, but did not become members of the Advisory Board is listed under "B" below.

From July 1 to August 31, 1970, 203 newspapers in 44 states published the Poll. These newspapers ranged in size from the St. Louis Globe Democrat and the San

* Especially April 20, 1970 speech
 May 4, 1970

with a final total of 115,559 participants.

From March 1 to August 31, 1970, the Council invited opinion leaders representing the full range of domestic political viewpoint to serve on its National Voter Advisory Board and to participate in the National Security Issues size from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the San Francisco Examiner to small town newspapers. The response of 27,197 readers is shown under "C" below.

It is clear from the results of this Poll and the results of other polls that most of the American people want the security of military superiority and oppose isolationism.

NATIONAL SECURITY INDEX

For democracy to work, the voter must know where the candidates stand. Thus, an essential element of the Operation Alert voter education program is to report on the national security voting record of each Member of Congress.

These tables list the roll call votes of Members of Congress on ten key national security bills or amendments. These key votes were identified by: 1) inviting each Member of Congress to tell us which roll call votes most fairly represented his national security views; 2) asking the advice of key staff members and 3) careful analysis of reports on roll call votes such as those published by the Congressional Quarterly.

The National Security Index shown below for each Member of Congress, was compiled from a comparison of his votes with National Voter Advisory Board positions as shown by the National Security Issues Poll. All the selected votes were on issues appearing in the Poll or were closely enough related so it could be clearly determined whether a "nay" or a "yea" vote would be consistent with the National Voter Advisory Board positions.

Since each vote is reported separately, voters may determine for themselves whether their elected representatives have been voting in the best interests of the United States.

Members of Congress who have organized themselves to reduce the resources and priority which in the past have been accorded to national security by the Congress are identified. This formal bi-partisan organization, made up solely of Members of Congress, represents an entirely new approach to lobbying.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Dear Mr. Harvey:

I have received your letter of September 24th, with enclosures.

With respect to your inquiry, the American Security Council is a private organization located at 123 North Wacker Drive,
Chicago, Illinois 60606. It has no affiliation with the United States Government. To comment upon material prepared by anyone other than personnel of this Bureau would be contrary to my long-standing policy and I have not made any statement concerning the information you enclosed.

On April 17, 1969, I did testify before the House Subcommittee on Appropriations concerning the alleged "Communist Rules for Revolution" and I am enclosing a copy of this testimony.

24th September

Dear Sirs,

American Security Council

We recently published from what we believed to be a reliable source a feature which we called 'Field Orders' covering Communist activities in the West and this has prompted some letters from our readers, one of which suggests that after full investigation by both the FBI and the CIA that Mr. J. Edgar Hoover declared the whole thing as 'spurious'. We enquired at the American Embassy in London and both the Librarian Nancy Phillips and the Press Officer Terry Franklin suggested we wrote to you direct since they have no knowledge of the matter.

Article by Adrian Day London, England

We shall be most grateful for your kind co-operation in letting us know as soon as possible whether the quotations from the Congressional Record are in order and whether they have been discredited by Mr. Hoover following investigation by the FBI or the CIA.

Yours faithfully,

b6

Read this page carefully—much of it will be all too familiar. The 'sting' is in the tail (as though you did not guess already!)

Adrian Day

PROMOTE THE UNITED NATIONS AS the only hope for mankind. If its charter is rewritten, demand that it be set up as a one-world government with its own independent armed forces.

Do away with all loyalty oaths.

Use technical decisions of the courts to weaken basic institutions by claiming their activities violate civil rights.

Get control of the schools. Use them as transmission belts for current propaganda. Soften the curriculum. Get control of teachers' associations. Get the party line in the textbooks.

Gain control of all student newspapers.

Use student riots to foment public protests against programmes or organisations which are currently under attack by the party.

Infiltrate the press. Get control of book review assignments, editorial writing, policy making positions.

Gain control of key positions in radio, TV, and motion pictures.

Continue discrediting Western culture by degrading all forms of artistic expression. Eliminate all good sculpture from parks and buildings, substitute shapeless, awkward and meaningless forms. Control art critics and directors of art museums. 'Our plan is to promote ugliness, repulsive, meaningless art'.

Eliminate all laws governing obscenity by calling them 'censorship' and violation of free speech and free press.

Break down cultural standards of morality by promoting pornography and obscenity in books, magazines, motion pictures, radio and TV.

Present homosexuality, degeneracy and promiscuity as 'normal, natural and healthy'.

Infiltrate the Churches and replace revealed religion with 'social' religion. Discredit the Bible and emphasise the need for intellectual maturity which does not need a 'religious crutch'.

Eliminate prayer or any phase of religious expression in the schools on the ground that it violates the principles of 'separation of Church and State'.

Support any movement to give centralised control over any part of the culture—education, social agencies, welfare programmes, mental health clinics, etc. Transfer some of the powers of arrest from the police to social agencies. Treat all behavioural problems as psychiatric disorders which no one but psychiatrists can understand or treat. Dominate the psychiatric profession and use mental health laws as a means of gaining coercive control over those who oppose party goals.

Discredit the family as an institution. Encourage promiscuity and easy divorce.

Emphasise the need to raise children away from the 'negative' influence of parents. Attribute prejudices, mental blocks and retarding of children to the suppressive influence of parents.

These are a selection of items more immediately relevant to demonstrations, subversion and corruption as we know them, all too well, today. They are taken from the United States Congressional Record (Senate) Appendix of the 10th January, 1963, under the heading of an 'Analysis of Communist Aims' drawn up in 1962 by the Field Director of The American Security Council. This was eight years ago—need we be surprised at what is happening today? —EDITOR.

QUESTION TIME

★ Witchcraft and Magic

★ God and the Earthquakes

★ Priestly Celibacy

This month our SUNDAY team range over a wide field of very pertinent questions

'It is said that the widespread prevalence of interest in witchcraft and magic together with the great increase in all kinds of superstition is due to people's need for the supernatural in their lives which so much "modern" Christianity is completely failing to provide—do you agree?'

DR. ERIC BAKER replies:

I agree that superstition and real religion are mutually exclusive, and that the prevalence today of superstition in various forms is one consequence of the decay of vital religious faith. I am not sure, however, that the blame can be laid at the door of 'modern Christianity'. I would have thought rather that the modern outlook, provided it remains truly Christian, had been responsible for the disappearance of many elements in the Christianity of the nineteenth century which had certain affinities with superstition. I think, for example, of the way in which among some (though always a minority) the conception of prayer contained magical elements.

☆ The main contention of the question, however, is undoubtedly true. Superstition has always been the foe of true religion. In Isaiah 47/13 the prophet wrote 'Let' now the astrologers, the stargazers, the monthly prognosticators stand up and save thee from the things that shall come upon thee. Behold, they shall be as stubble; the fire shall burn them'. Then after Paul's preaching at Ephesus and, centuries later, after Savonarola's preaching in Florence, Christian converts made a bonfire of their superstitious books and other paraphernalia.

The Jews believed that God is One, hence the prophet's denunciations of the astrologers, and when the young Christian religion was carried into the Graeco-Roman world in the countries round the Mediterranean basin, it came as a great liberating influence. The people in those countries believed in the existence of many capricious deities who needed to be appeased. The gospel delivered them from these demons and taught them that God is One and that His name is Love.

Deep down in men's hearts it is fear that drives them to superstition. It is men's need for protection that leads them to seek safety in such quarters. They turn to it when they are at the end of their resources. To a certain extent this evil thing can be banished by knowledge. For thinking people the true science of astronomy has banished the false science of astrology. As the late C. E. M. Joad remarked: 'Astrology is bunk'. But the only complete cure is to be found in genuine religious faith. The Christian religion delivers men from fear not by promising immunity from these experiences of which we are afraid, but by affording us strength whereby we may meet them victoriously. In the world ye have tribulation', said Jesus to his disciples, 'but courage! I have overcome the world'. So Paul proclaimed in triumph 'I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord'. Such a conviction leaves no room for superstition but, if it is absent, whoever is to blame, superstition will inevitably flourish.

'How can one reconcile the idea of a God of Love with repeated natural disasters such as the earthquakes in Turkey and Peru?'

RICHARD TATLOCK replies:

This question is one that has been asked a thousand, thousand times over the centuries, and I verily believe that no one has ever been able to answer it, or will ever do so, to the satisfaction of everybody. It is one of those dreadful puzzles which every man has to solve for himself in the light of his own philosophy of life. And when he has done so, he must never presume to think that the solution which satisfies himself will necessarily satisfy everyone else. In attempting to provide an answer myself therefore, I can only offer the scheme of reasoning which carries conviction for me; and in doing so, I do not assume that I am offering either a 'water-tight' answer, or an answer that will satisfy all our readers.

☆ The dilemma which lies behind this problem, and which is itself the real problem, can be best summarised like this: Christian doctrine says: God is All-Loving, and God is Omnipotent. But if God were All-Loving and Omnipotent, he would banish all those natural disasters which cause suffering to his innocent creatures. Since natural disasters do occur therefore—God may be All-Loving, or he may be Omnipotent, but he cannot be both at one and the same time. To that line of argument there is, as I see it, no solution. So as a person who does believe that God is both All-Loving and Omnipotent, how can I—how must I—resolve this dilemma? I resolve it by reminding myself that all our thinking about God, the Great inated by the 'smallest electric motor in the world' and a pair of tongs made from a single matchstick. We were shown a model of Ann Hathaway's cottage which measured about one and a half inches long and was unbelievably detailed. One is shown round the museum by the proprietress, a spry elderly lady who balances the models on the back of her hand and illuminates them with a torch while one gazes at them through a 'Sherlock Holmes' magnifying glass. It is all faintly bizarre, but there are also some very good geological specimens collected by the owner and her husband.

Castleton is also the location of the Peak Cavern, a famous local tourist spot. The magnificent entrance to this huge cave is rather off-putting, with its ugly fence and ticket office, but this natural phenomenon is an awe-inspiring sight. We enjoyed more our visit to the Speedwell Cavern, an old lead mine, now flooded. For three shillings one can board a narrow boat, holding about twenty curious souls, and be transported into the very heart of a rocky hill in the Winnat's Pass. As we slowly travelled along the narrow tunnel, lit by coloured bulbs along its length, we were told its history by a witty young guide. The tunnel opened into an enormous cavern 840 feet from the top of the mountain, and solid rock. On the return journey, the lights were extinguished and we were regaled with a story of a bloody murder committed at the mine many years ago. This was the best part of the trip, in the opinion of our boys, but I must admit that the experience would not be enjoyed by the claustrophobic!

A useful 'Calendar of Events', picked up at the Edale information centre, sent us along to the Hope Show, a very popular event in Derbyshire. Here one can watch the show-jumping and visit the many sideshows. A long unfulfilled ambition of mine was realized here; I saw sheep-dog trials at last. What marvellous skill these dogs have, one moment an inanimate mound of fur, belly-flat to the ground, the next moment a blurred streak of black and white as the sheep are pursued at a whistled command. Well worth watching, especially if you have a voluntary commentator in the person of a retired shepherd, as we had!

In the town of Bakewell, we sampled the original 'Bakewell Puddings' from the shop where they have been produced for 100 years. They were delicious light puffy morsels flavoured with almond, quite different from what we call Bakewell tarts in the south.

'What's Well Dressing?' we wondered, perusing our events calendar one evening. A visit to Wormhill soon showed us this artistic and religious ceremony. With local people and visitors one evening, we stood before a magnificent picture of the church of St. Columba, on the island of Iona, the subject of that year's picture decorating the well. The most breathtaking fact about the picture, which stood about ten feet high by about six across, was that it was composed of fresh flower petals that very morning. Some days before the blessing ceremony, the outline of the chosen picture is 'drawn' in special clay mounted on a board, with alder cones, twigs, mosses and other everlasting materials from nature. Then, on the morning of the day the well is to be blessed, the frantic work begins.

The chosen team of experienced workers swiftly build up the picture with brilliant flower petals — hydrangeas, marigolds, anything seems to be used and the finished effect, especially floodlit in the dusk, as we saw it, is a loving work of art, its roots set deep in tradition. The ceremony was originated, I believe, by the people of Eyam, whose village, in 1665 voluntarily cut itself off from outside communication when a member contracted the Plague. Many villagers died, but the disease did not spread.

Apart from several excursions on foot among the peaks, including the well-known Jacob's Ladder, we had some very enjoyable swimming. My favourite pool was at Hathersage, an open-air delight of warm water and overlooked, oddly enough, by a wrought-iron bandstand! The most novel swim of the holiday, however, was enjoyed on our one wet day, which we spent at Buxton. Here, in the impressively housed indoor baths, we were greeted by a written notice: 'Visitors are warned that these baths are of a temporary nature.' They looked to us extremely permanent, with their marble and mahogany fixtures.

There was a choice of three, each one roughly 27 feet square and of varying depths. The atmosphere of the building was chilly compared to our heated, suburban Surrey pools, but the thermally heated water was quite comfortable. We swam around the strangely frustrating dimensions of the pool like hysterical goldfish trying to avoid the other three people who joined us in this embarrassing confinement of space. However, our youngest son was very happy in not having to beware of the 'deep end' and gained badly needed confidence here. After swimming in these natural waters, one can still 'take them', internally, in the building opposite, which houses St. Ann's well (6d. per glass, 10d. with orange).

The Peak District in fact has much to offer those who want something a little different from the usual seaside holiday. For those who enjoy, like us, a roughish walk and some reasonably challenging rock-climbing, with the exhilaration of climbing to 'the top of things', there is also much scope in the Peaks of Derbyshire. We advise you to go and see it all now, before it disappears under the tramp of 'progress'. *

The Real Motives

Adrian Day's timely revelations point to the real motives of those who are seeking to promote the 'permissive' society. These facts have been known for many years and whilst as Christians we should all condemn this infiltration, we are slow to take action. In the field of drama, for instance (one which 'Field Orders' cites), a good example is the Westminster Theatre where two thought-provoking plays are currently being presented—'The Forgotten Factor' and 'Blind-sight'. There is tremendous publicity on TV and the Press for the obscene and depraved (e.g. 'Oh! Calcutta'), whilst efforts to provide plays such as these which endeavour to interpret the Christian message to modern man are ignored.

E. H. Gudridge

Perranporth, Cornwall

Ridiculous?

Adrian Day's article seemed to be highlighting one kind of extremism by another and in a most unsatisfactory way. The Communists publish enough of their own work that for us to turn to the Americans to tell us what they say seems to be bordering on the ridiculous.

Roy Stallard

Leicester

Hate-mongering?

I must protest against this article. Silly as it is, it is also an example of hate-mongering which ought not to appear in a Christian magazine—that is if SUNDAY is Christian and not merely Church. The article is purely a psychological projection and has no connection with real life.

Margaret Reed

Ryde, Isle of Wight

ADRIAN DAY comments:

'Margaret Reed's and Roy Stallard's distinctions are puzzling. Either the extracts I gave from the sources cited are true or false. If, as I have good reason to believe, they are true then there is also every reason to publish them in a Christian magazine and to do so is neither ridiculous nor hate-mongering. To say there 'is no connection with real life' in the light of what is happening in many countries today, certainly including our own, does seem to me ridiculous and as much a 'psychological projection' as the implication that Christianity is something quite distinct from Church membership. It is precisely this woolly thinking and unwillingness to face the facts that is the real problem we have to contend with.'

THE DEBATE CONTINUES

One Sided

It is shocking to me that an ecumenical publication such as SUNDAY should carry such a one-sided article on the Mayflower Pilgrims (June). Throughout they are represented only as the 'victims' of a persecuting Archbishop Laud. The other side of the picture is that they were part of a great wave of religious change that had seriously damaged the Church of England during the later years of Edward VI and was moving towards its complete destruction under Cromwell, with the parochial clergy turned out from the parishes, the Prayer Book Services forbidden, the Archbishop of Canterbury executed and a stern Puritan regime imposed all over England.

We must recognise frankly that the spirit of 'live and let live' had not then been invented and all sides merely fought for their own survival.

Testing the Spirits

Mary Andere says that the Churches Fellowship for Psychical and Spiritual Studies has been examining the evidence and testing spirits for ten years. It did not take St. Paul very long to know whether or not a spirit was of the Lord. He was filled with the Holy Spirit which Jesus promised the Father would send in His name to teach all things and guide into truth. It is clear from The Acts of the Apostles that the experience of Pentecost was common to all Christians, empowering them for service. The accompanying gifts of the Spirit were especially in operation when the Christians met for the Breaking of the Bread, knowledge, wisdom, healing, prophecy, faith, interpretation of tongues—and discernment.

We are warned not to get involved with the spirit world. Only the Holy Spirit can give the discernment of spirits whether they are good or evil. The supreme test is the honour or otherwise given to Our Lord, for no man can say 'Jesus is Lord' except by the Spirit. Search the Scriptures with an open mind and believing-heart and you will find.

A. M. Twycross

MARY ANDERE writes: 'I shall be most grateful if you can make it clear that the picture of the medium you published with my article is not me! I have strong views about trance mediumship and no wish to be thought of as a medium by anyone.' Our picture was of a genuine medium but we are happy to confirm it was not Mary Andere.—EDITOR.

Our Union?

May I reply to reader Ian Wells of Southport (June Forum) who seems to think that if one is a mere 'church-goer' one has not 'integrated Christianity' into one's life. He asks if we regularly attend our own Union meetings. The answer—at least for me and I suspect for many, many more, is that I do not belong to any Union at all—and am profoundly grateful that I don't! The Trade Unions are the biggest problem this country has to face in our day and the sooner they are shorn of some of their powers and made to realise that the nation should come first and their sectional interests second, the better for us all. I find the Sunday Forum letters most interesting, refreshingly 'un-churchy' despite what Mr. Wells says, and are one of the few opportunities we ordinary lay folk in the pews seem to have to express our opinions.

Nominated by the

for American Strategy

[Redacted]
Gaithersburg, Maryland 20760

Dear [Redacted]

We urgently need your help in Gaithersburg right now and invite you, [Redacted], to serve on our Operation Alert Board during the elections.

The 1970 elections may be the most important ever held in the United States. The results will, in a very real sense, decide the outcome of the Communist drive for world domination.

Why? Because the United States is now Number 2 in strategic military power. Already the Soviet Union has gained a 6 to 1 superiority in missile megatonnage, and, unless we try harder, the Soviets will soon be able to have their way regardless of our wishes.

Secretary of Defense Laird said on April 20, 1970, "...from 1965 to 1970, the Soviet Union has virtually quadrupled the total megatonnage in its strategic offensive force. In that same period the United States reduced its megatonnage by more than 40%."

Yet, in the face of this clear threat, a coalition of Republican and Democratic Senators and Congressmen have organized to force reductions in our defense budget and to abandon Vietnam.

If these Senators and Congressmen are re-elected, they will have a clear mandate to reduce our military strength further!

Is that what Americans want? To find out we conducted a nationwide poll on vital national security issues--115,599 people participated! We found that the overwhelming majority do want the security of military superiority.

We then prepared a National Security Index which compares the voting record of each Member of Congress with the poll...and the result shows there are 18 Senators who have a National Security Index of zero! Among the zero-rating Senators are these six running for re-election: Goodell, Hart, [Redacted]

CONFIDENTIAL - SECURITY INFORMATION
In several elections, the voter has a clear choice. For example, for California Senator, it is Murphy with an Index of "100" against Tunney with "0". In New York State both Goodell (R), and Ottinger (D), who score "0", are opposed by Buckley, the security-minded Conservative candidate.

There is still time for you to take positive action --now, before election day. This may be the last election where you, as a U.S. voter, can influence the outcome of the conflict between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S. -- so please lend a hand!

Here is what you can do to make the massive OPERATION ALERT voter education program a success:

..sign and return the enclosed card to let President Nixon know that you will not be silent -- that you will vote for security-minded candidates and back him in an emergency effort to make America Number 1 again. We'll deliver it to the White House.

..order copies of the enclosed OPERATION ALERT folder for your friends, relatives and other social and business associates.

..join the Operation Alert Board -- any contribution will make you a Board member, $25 or more will give you the American Security Council's newsletter and copies of studies as they are published.

To alert all Americans, we plan 200 full page newspaper ads, prime time TV spots, distributing millions of Operation Alert folders through cooperating organizations, and other major public information efforts. This will cost at least $238,000 beyond our present budget.

We need immediate help and must turn to you for financial support. You, and others I am writing today, will determine by your contribution how effective Operation Alert will be.

What is a strategically secure America worth to you? $1000, $200, $25, $10? You can't put a price tag on security. But you can help by sending as much as you can afford. Working together we can make America Number 1 again, and pass on to our children a secure Nation.

Sincerely,

John M. Fisher
President

P.S. If there were ever a time to stand up and be counted, this is it! Will you try harder?

Operation Alert is a multi-organization voter education program. Its purpose is to alert American voters to the reality that the United States is falling behind the Soviet Union in nuclear weapons so fast that the 1970 elections may be their last chance to vote for "Peace through Strength."

National security issues are so important that all voters should carefully consider the national security positions of each candidate in the 1970 elections. The inside fold shows a National Security Voting Index for each member of Congress.

The American Security Council is a non-profit research and education association dealing exclusively with national security problems.

All concerned Americans are invited to cooperate in this educational program.
